

George and Crisp Make Ardent Plea For Party Loyalty

In First Speech Since
Houston Meet Senator
Warns Voters Against Desertion at Polls.

HITS REPUBLICANS
AS SOUTH'S ENEMY

To Abandon Party Is To Join Forces With Those Who Despise South, He Says.

Americus, Ga., July 26.—(AP)—Declaring that those who abandon the democratic party in the November election will not have entered any new movement "but will have joined forces with the ancient enemy," United States Senator Walter F. George in an address this afternoon at Union schoolhouse in Webster county made a ringing appeal for strict loyalty to the democratic national ticket.

More than 2,000 persons heard Senator George deliver his first public address since the Houston convention, where he was second to Governor Smith in the balloting as a candidate for presidential nominee. Many of them were homefolks who made the occasion a homecoming for the senator within a few miles of the spot where he was born and reared.

Representative Charles R. Crisp, member of the house of representatives, also was a speaker. Mr. Crisp, like Senator George, exhorted the voters to stand by the national party ticket in the November elections.

Duty of Loyalty.
"My mother who lies sleeping in yonder churchyard taught me from my earliest childhood that my first and highest duty was fidelity to my obligations and pledges," Senator George declared. "Can it be that my mother was entirely wrong and that those who seek to advise me now are entirely right, although they may be ministers of the gospel?"

"I do not believe so, and therefore, I would not have the slightest hesitancy or the remotest fear in saying to her, if she were here, that I am going to faithfully observe and abide by my obligations to the democratic party."

"The public affairs of this country always have been conducted through political parties. If we break down the party system we will go in all directions and get nowhere. Of course it is silly and idle for any intelligent man to say that his party can never be wrong. Party loyalty after all is

PSYCHOSIS VICTIM FOUND WANDERING ON CITY STREETS

Arrested as he wandered dazed and speechless through downtown streets Thursday afternoon, M. C. McKaugh, a 25-year-old clerk in an Oakhurst drug store, was taken first to jail and then to Grady hospital where he was found to be suffering from a rare form of psychosis, a mental malady. He was also found to be afflicted with typhoid fever.

McKaugh came to Atlanta about two months ago from Toronto, Canada. He sought and found work in the drug store of Dr. A. L. Curtis in Oakhurst shortly after he arrived in the city. Thursday morning he disappeared from his lodging place in Decatur and did not report for work. Some hours later he was arrested by Patrolman A. J. Wingate. He could not speak to the officer and when questioned at headquarters appeared to be in a dazed condition.

His employer, Dr. Curtis, learned of his plight and after affecting his release from jail took him immediately to the hospital. Here an examination revealed him to be suffering from the two maladies.

At a late hour Thursday night McKaugh had not recovered his power of speech.

4 BISHOPS REPLY TO CARDS ISSUED BY CANDLER, DENNY

Statement Warns "Wet
Forces" Church Will Not Be Driven From the Field.

Richmond, Va., July 26.—(AP)—Four southern Methodist bishops, in a joint statement made public here tonight, served notice upon opponents of prohibition that the supporters of law "will not be driven from the field by the cry that they are bringing the church into politics" by opposing an "outstanding enemy of national prohibition" for the presidency.

The statement, signed by Bishops James Cannon, Jr., of Richmond; John W. Moore, of Dallas; Edwin Mounson, of Nashville; and Horace M. Dubose, of Nashville, called upon the ministry and laity of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, to continue the fight against the liquor traffic and "would-be nullifiers of the law."

In view of statements recently made by Bishop Warren A. Candler, of Atlanta, and Bishop Collins Denny, of Richmond, and interpretations placed upon them by the wets, the joint statement declared "it becomes absolutely necessary that the attitude of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, on the question of prohibition should be plainly set forth by quotations from episcopal addresses and from the official record of the general conference of the church, which utterances must be accepted as final authority."

Bishop Candler had said and Bishop Denny had concurred in a statement from the position of my church on the subject of personal and party politics, as that position has been proclaimed authoritatively by its leaders from the beginning of its history as a Christian body."

Referring to this assertion, the joint statement tonight said there was no desire to criticize statements by Methodist bishops between 1865 and 1894 on personal and party politics. Bishop Cannon expressed the personal opinion that Bishop Candler quoted only from those bishops prior to 1894 and that prohibition as an issue gained ascendancy since that time.

"These bishops," the joint statement said, "openly and courageously

Heeney's Hopes Are Blasted

Above is shown Tom Heeney as he went down to the canvas under a furious onslaught from the fists of Gene Tunney in the world's championship fight at Yankee stadium Thursday night. Heeney, pretender to the throne occupied by Tunney, was no match for the champion and the bout was ended in the eleventh round with Tunney being given a technical knockout. Heeney was knocked to the floor in the tenth round but the bell saved him. Other telephotos on page 13.

MEARS, COLLYER LAND HERE TODAY

Famous Aviators To Compete in Air Derby Will Pilot Round-the-World
Fairchild Plane to City.

John Henry Mears and Captain Charles Collyer, the famous aviators who beat by four days the record for circumnavigating the globe, will swoop down on Candler field this afternoon some time between 2 and 4 o'clock.

The aviators are coming to Atlanta, their first visit to any city since completing their round-the-world trip, to participate in the air derby at Candler field Saturday and Sunday, under the direction of Swann Taylor. They will fly down from New York in the giant Fairchild cabin plane which was used in the circling of the globe. The ship has been entered in several of the races here.

Mr. Taylor, in announcing the coming of Mears and Collyer, announced Thursday night that the ban placed by the department of commerce on the contemplated stunt of transferring from an automobile to an airplane by Miss Mabel Cody had been lifted and that Miss Cody would be able to go through with the daring feat.

Standing in the tannery of an automobile speeding around the Candler field track at a rate of 60 or more miles per hour, Miss Cody will reach up for a rope ladder dangling from a Travelair plane which will have swooped down over the car and attempt to clamber up the ladder to safety.

It isn't the first time that Miss Cody has attempted the stunt, but it will mark the first time she has tried it in Atlanta. She has done it at various air circuses and on several occasions has received serious injury.

Arrests Bare Giant Check Swindle Ring

Many Department Stores
Victimized by Girls in Nation-Wide Plot.

New York, July 26.—(United News.)—A country-wide ring of check swindlers, employing 40 girls, which had passed fraudulent checks on many department stores during the last year, was revealed today by the National Surety company, an organization which compensates merchants for such losses.

The ring was discovered by the arrest of Doris Pansy and Betty Todd at Philadelphia recently, the company said. The girls, who said they were actresses out of employment, told how they were approached by a man named Miller in Chicago.

Miller explained to them how to pick the name of some reputable resident of the city out of the telephone book, deposit several hundred dollars to that name in a bank and then give checks for twice the amount at a store.

Before the checks could be cashed the girls withdrew their funds and left town. They made a profit on the value of the goods, of which the girls got about 30 per cent, officials said. The company reported many cuties had been victims of the ring.

Hisses Greet Italia's Crew at Norway Port

Narvik, Norway, July 26.—(AP)—The Italian survivors of the wrecked dirigible Italia disembarked from their base ship Citta Di Milano tonight while a great crowd assembled to watch them maintained silence broken by a few scattered hisses.

On the other hand the members of the Swedish relief expedition, who are traveling to Stockholm by the same train, were loudly cheered as they boarded their car.

The Italians hurried from the ship to the special car reserved for them and the train left at 6:30 p. m. General Umberto Nobile, commander of the Italia expedition, looked pale and worn, and his face showed plain signs of the strain under which he had been laboring. The other members of his party appeared well except Natale Cecconi, motor chief, whose leg, broken in the crash of the dirigible, was bandaged.

HASSELL WILL TRY OCEAN HOP AGAIN

Wrecked Plane Expected
To Be Repaired in Time
For Another Take-Off
Within Ten Days.

Rockford, Ill., July 26.—(United News.)—The gloom which fell upon this small midwestern city today when the big blue monoplane "Greater Rockford" crashed into a cornfield 15 minutes after starting for Sweden, goal of a trail-blazing one-stop flight, lifted tonight.

Still determined to put Rockford upon the international map, the chamber of commerce, which had backed the project, hastily called its flight committee into session. When it adjourned the committee emerged, exuding optimism, and announced another start would be made as soon as the plane was repaired.

It was possible, they said, that Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, the fliers, might leave within ten days. Much difficulty had been encountered in financing the costly venture by popular subscription, and when Hassell, unable to gain altitude in the calm air, was forced to wreck the plane in landing Rockford's dream of establishing the future air route to Europe was shattered—temporarily.

Hassell, who was so broken-hearted over the accident that he wept, enthusiastically started preparations for the new attempt. Neither he nor Cramer was injured in the crash. It was planned to have the damaged plane repaired at the Stinson-Detroit factory at Northville immediately.

Horta, Island of Fayal, Azores, July 26.—(AP)—Efforts of Captain Frank T. Courtney, British aviator, to take off in his plane for America, were unsuccessful tonight. Between 6 and 8 o'clock in the evening Courtney made repeated attempts to get in the air but all failed. Similar attempts this morning were likewise unsuccessful. Weather conditions tonight were reported perfect for the flight. The sea was moderate and there was a favoring wind from the south.

Captain Courtney will continue tomorrow his attempts to hop off.

SMITH ATTACKS OWENS FOR BOLT

Former Senator Himself
Once Sought Tammany
Aid and Now Would Turn Cold Shoulder.

Albany, N. Y., July 26.—(AP)—The sincerity of former Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, in bolting the democratic party was questioned today by Governor Smith, who recalled that Owen, as the presidential aspirant himself, four years ago, sought the support of Tammany hall, which he now is assailing.

Owen who served three terms in the United States senate, retiring in 1921, announced yesterday in New York that he had cast his lot with the republicans this year because of Smith's stand on prohibition and his alliance with Tammany.

Asked to comment on this development at the outset of his press conference today Governor Smith advised the reporters he had prepared a formal statement, one of the few he had given out since his nomination at Houston.

The nominee then read the text aloud, slowly and solemnly.

"Naturally I am sorry to see Senator Owen leave the democratic party because of my nomination," the statement began. "However, he is a free American citizen and has the right to choose the party that best suits his ideas."

The governor recounted that during the Madison Square Garden convention four years ago Owen called to see him at the Manhattan club across the street from the convention hall, "and asked me to

Polite Bandit Gives Version of Prize Fight

Two Other Bandits Leave
Cafe Owner Coins To Make Change.

Courteous bandits figured in two daring hold-ups in Atlanta late Thursday night, the manager of the Stand-Oil company filling station at the corner of Peachtree road and Collier road being the first victim of a hold-up, when a lone, white, unmasked bandit entered the station and obtained approximately $36.

Pete Pappas, manager of the Seminole Soda and Delicatessen company, at the corner of Ponce de Leon and Seminole avenues, was visited a short time afterwards by two unmasked white men, who held him up and took $25, leaving Pappas some silver with which to make change.

The first bandit entered the station, pulled out a gun, and covered the manager and negro porter. The bandit, who was described as a well-dressed young man, seemed in no hurry to get the money, and discussed the Tunney-Heeney fight with the manager, giving his version as to why Heeney lost, while the latter and the negro porter gazed down the barrel of his revolver. In the midst of the conversation, a

DEMOCRATS OPEN BATTLE TO SECURE SUPPORT OF LABOR

Pressmen's Union Chief
Named on Board; Cox and Davis Selected To Aid in Campaign.

New York, July 26.—(United News.)—Democrats have completed plans for a vigorous campaign to capture the organized labor vote.

Chairman John J. Raskob, of the democratic national committee, announced tonight the appointment of Major George L. Berry, of Tennessee, president of the international printing pressmen, as director of the national organization's labor bureau.

Berry was a candidate for the vice presidential nomination in 1924 and at Houston.

Two former democratic presidential candidates were enlisted today in the campaign for the election of Governor Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, 1924 candidate, and James M. Cox, 1920 candidate.

Both will be given positions on important committees and will engage in speaking campaigns. Davis conferred with Raskob today and Cox will see him Friday.

Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, arrived tonight for a conference with Governor Smith, who will come here Friday before he begins a short vacation on Long Island.

Smith, it is understood, will enlist Ritchie as a Volstead act modification campaigner in the eastern states. Optimistic reports on the middle west were brought to democratic headquarters today by Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, just returned from a trip there, and by A. J. Gormak, democratic candidate for senator in Illinois.

Walsh said Smith "has caught the imagination of the American people as few men in my time in politics."

RASKOB IS ELECTED AS CLUB MEMBER.

New York, July 26.—(AP)—John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, and member of the Republican Union League club of Philadelphia, today became a member of the National Democratic club of New York.

HAMMER DEATH BAFFLES POLICE

Florida Officers Seeking
Granddaughter of Ohio
Man Believed Slain for Huge Sum of Money.

Lake City, Fla., July 26.—(AP)—Officials investigating the killing here last Monday night of George W. Simmons, wealthy Steubenville, Ohio, widower, tonight faced a blank wall in their endeavors to solve the mystery.

Simmons' body was found early Tuesday near a highway several miles from here, his skull crushed.

Authorities still are concentrating their efforts on a search for Mrs. Helen Booth, 18, granddaughter of the dead man, and her husband, E. L. Booth, who disappeared from their Lake City tourist camp home the night of Simmons' death. No trace of them has been found.

A blood-stained automobile belonging to Simmons and believed to have been used by his slayers, was found on the streets of Jacksonville Tuesday.

Simmons was believed to have been killed for a large sum of money he was reported to have had on his person. The body is held here pending a coroner's inquest Saturday.

SON OF SLAIN MAN
DEFENDS DAUGHTER.

St. Clairsville, Ohio, July 26.—(AP)—Edward Simmons, father of Mrs. E. L. Booth, 18-year-old bride who, with her husband, is sought in connection with the murder of the girl's grandfather, George W. Simmons, at Lake City, Fla. Monday night, came to his daughter's defense today.

Simmons, who is the son of the slain man, said that "Edelen could not have killed her grandfather."

"She always liked him," he explained. "I can't think Helen would do such a thing, but if she is implicated it is because she was forced into it."

The elder Simmons, wealthy retired contractor, was found beaten to death early Tuesday, some time after the girl and her husband had visited him.

Referee Stops Fight Few

Prevent Knockout of New Zealand Contender.

ANZAC BATTERED
DOWN IN TENTH

Marine Becomes Real
Fighter; Challenger Is Blinded But Brave After
First of Battle.

BY GRANTLAND RICE.
Yankee Stadium, New York, July 26.—Gene Tunney is still the heavyweight champion of the world by a margin as wide as the gap between New York city and Gisborne, New Zealand. And that margin is too wide to walk.

For the better part of the 11 rounds Tunney, the champion, carved up Tom Heeney, the challenger, at the Yankee stadium tonight until the operation finally became so gory and so one-sided that Referee Eddie Forbes stopped the slaughter with eight seconds left in the eleventh round.

Technical Knockout.

This goes as a technical knockout for Tunney as the gory, gory but game New Zealand was an open target without a chance in the world to finish the fight. Heeney finished with nothing left but his stout heart. He was like a man charging a machine gun nest for seven or eight rounds and when Tunney had riddled both body and head with lefts and rights he then went in coolly to finish up the job. For the last three rounds Heeney took terrific punishment and near the finish even his mighty stamina began to wilt badly and the beginning of the end came near the end of the tenth round when Tunney, after a heavy fusillade, knocked the challenger down as the bell rang.

Gets Up Groggy.

Heeney got up groggy and reeling, almost out as his seconds rushed him to the corner and made a wild attempt to clear his head and bring him back to life. But after all it was Tex Rickard who took most of the punishment far more than Heeney ever felt. Less than 50,000 spectators turned in something under $700.

MUNITIONS DEPOT AT NORFOLK SCENE OF BLAST AND FIRE

Norfolk, Va., July 27.—(AP)—Explosion of a powder magazine at St. Juliens Creek naval ammunition depot near Portsmouth early this morning caused extensive damage but no one was injured.

The magazine, a 200x50-foot building, was filled with smokeless powder which was believed to have been set off by spontaneous combustion.

Fifty marines and a number of civilian employees succeeded in putting flames started by the blast under control within an hour after the explosion. A company of marines from the Norfolk navy yard and fire departments of Portsmouth and Cranford were called into the scene.

No estimate of the damage was available.

ARMY RESERVES, REGULARS CLASH

Washington, July 26.—(AP)—A sharp difference of opinion between reserve officers of the army over proposals to set up new and largely independent machinery for administration of their affairs within the war department was disclosed in a trio of reports by an advisory committee of nine reserve officers made public by the department today without comment.

The committee had been in session on active duty at the department since July 9. It was unanimous in submitting some 30 recommendations in regard to reserve corps administrative matters, including a proposal that a separate corps organization be created for national guard officers, entirely distinct from the officers' reserve corps for all purposes, including promotion. The committee suggested the name "guard corps" in this connection.

Some Changes Opposed.

On the broader question of reserve administration, a majority of six of the nine committee members, headed by Brigadier General Leigh R. Gignil, chairman, disapproved any change in the present system, which is handled directly by the chief of staff of the army.

The other three reservists, headed by Brigadier General John R. DeLafield, a former president of the Reserve Officers' association, recommended in a minority report on this point establishment of a new branch under an assistant chief of staff with the rank of brigadier general and charged by the law with responsibility for initiating and executing all policies relative to the organized reserve and the officers' reserve corps.

In answer to this suggestion, the committee majority filed a supplemental report signed by all the majority members except General Gignil. It took exception to any suggestion of the minority report, tending to indicate that the majority members were not fully informed of the facts and declared the opinion that the chief of staff "is as fully competent to handle the affairs of the reserves as he is those of the regular army."

Demand Growing.

The minority report said there was an increasing demand among reservists for a war department organization similar to that for the national guard through the military bureau which is headed by a national guard officer on active duty with the rank and pay of a major general. It also said the majority had voted down a motion that the committee ask the advice of the war secretary and the chief of staff on that point, although this had been done as to practically all other matters discussed.

In recommending the creation of a "guard corps," the full committee said all national guard commissions should be transferred to the proposed new corps with "rights, privileges and status" such as guardsmen now have in the officers' reserve corps.

There was no detailed discussion of the point in the minority report. Among other recommendations the committee urged elimination of the 300-hour credit as sufficient for reserve promotions; development of the enlisted reserve corps; transfer of reserve officers to inactive status only voluntarily or on failure to take prescribed training; elimination of reserve appropriations; elimination of concurrent guard and reserve commissions; increase of equipment available for reserve units; training and a score of other changes in the reserve administrative system.

PRISON "TOO HOT," LOWERY IS GIVEN REDUCTION IN TERM

Reluctant, "on account of the heat," to spend any more time than absolutely necessary in the city stockade, W. R. Lowery, 34, of Riverside, so earnestly pleaded for leniency before Recorder Murphy M. Holloway Thursday, that the latter sentenced Lowery to serve 10 days instead of the 15-day term which already had been imposed.

Lowery told the judge the unhappy tale of his release from the stockade Wednesday noon, after serving 45 days on three consecutive 15-day sentences all given him for being drunk. He explained that his new-found freedom moved him to celebrate a little and he found himself back in jail at 2 o'clock, only two hours after his release. In view of the recently expired sentence, the man's complaint that "the stockade is powerful hot these days" and his promise to steer clear of stimulants, the court granted the prisoner's request and made the sentence 10 days instead of 15.

COOLIDGE OPENS BASEBALL MEET

Superior, Wis., July 26.—(AP)—In his first appearance at a public function since coming to northern Wisconsin for his vacation, President Coolidge today opened the head of the lakes baseball tournament by throwing out the first ball.

The appearance of the chief executive whose past contacts with the national pastime have been in opening big league games with thousands looking on, was a magnet which filled the local park to capacity, but even then but a few hundred could squeeze into the grounds.

Arriving on time, President Coolidge, the president and his party arrived promptly at 2 o'clock. The preliminaries were soon over, the presidential party posed for photographers, Mr. Coolidge tossed out a ball to the first pitcher, and the game was on.

Inspired, evidently by the fact the president was watching him, the first batter up knocked the ball over the fence. Local rules allowed him only two bases, but it was a fitting beginning to the game which, spotted by the president, was a thriller throughout.

President Coolidge, seated comfortably in a box built especially for the occasion, seemed to enjoy the efforts of the semi-professional players. Several times he leaned forward at a tense moment in the play. Mrs. Coolidge evidenced her approval several times by applauding while John, on the other side of his father, sat intently watching the game.

The field was muddy. Players slipped and fell and fielders some times kicked up sprays of water from the soft ground as they chased the much hit ball.

Tanned to Brown.

The president appeared to be in high spirits. Tanned a healthy brown from his frequent fishing expeditions on the Brule river, he smiled frequently and resting easily on a large cushioned chair, seemed to find the change from his usual vacation routine much to his like.

Leaving at the end of the third inning, President Coolidge drove to his executive offices at the Central High school where he looked over some papers, before proceeding to the summer white house.

Mrs. Coolidge went into the offices with him and stood by his desk as he went through his correspondence.

This season the peaches thus brought in are large in size and of specially fine flavor, the trucks are doing good business.

MERCEDES GLEITZ FAILS TO SWIM IRISH CHANNEL

Port Patrick, Scotland, July 26.—(AP)—Mercedes Gleitz, London typist, abandoned an attempt to swim the Irish channel between Donaghadee, Ireland, and Port Patrick at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Miss Gleitz gave up the 22-mile swim when about 12 miles off the Irish coast because of the coldness of the water, after swimming slightly more than 14 hours.

She started from the fishing village at 2:57 a. m. today for Port Patrick, Scotland, by the old Royal sailing route. Hugh Muir, an expert on tidal conditions, asserted, however, that the treacherous currents would force her to swim three times that distance. It is recognized that the stretch of water offers a swimmer much greater handicap than even the English channel.

Miss Gleitz last October claimed to have swum the English channel in faster time than Gertrude Ederle, but was denied official credit because no recognized officials or newspapermen were present. She has also conquered the strait of Gibraltar. Her initial attempt to swim the North channel on June 23 failed.

POWERS WILL SIGN WAR BAN IN PARIS

Paris, July 26.—(AP)—The Kellogg pact outlawing war is to be signed by 15 governments here late next month. The number may be increased to 16 since Spain has intimated that she will be glad to join in the solemn ceremony putting war outside the pale of governmental policies.

France, as host to the distinguished gathering, will issue the invitations but Secretary Kellogg, as author of the treaty, will say who shall be asked to join in the great peace manifestation.

Arrangements for the ceremony are tentative thus far and even the date is not definite. Final plans will depend on what happens within the next three or four weeks. The probability is, however, that the signing will take place in the famous clock room of the French foreign office, scene of most of the notable discussions of the peace negotiations at the end of the world war. A tentative date is Wednesday, August 29, but the historic event may take place on either of the two preceding days.

BAPTIST CLERGY NOT IN POLITICS

Savannah, Ga., July 26.—(AP)—Rev. John E. White, pastor of the First Baptist church here, replying to the suggestion of Dr. John D. Mell that the Baptist preachers in Georgia avoid politics, said today that "Dr. Mell need not worry over the Baptist preachers in Georgia. Their influence will go precisely in the direction of his own thundering in the Georgia Baptist convention, which he has often so passionately addressed on public, legal and political evils."

Dr. Mell is the president of the Georgia Baptist convention and his warning to the ministers to stay out of politics was published today in the Christian Index of Atlanta.

"I have not observed that there is any occasion for Dr. John Mell's rather shrill appeal to the Baptist pastors in Georgia to play safe in the present political situation in this state," said Mr. White. "He may have heard of some Sam Jones or Billy Sunday among us who has turned his pulpit into a partisan political forum but I have not. There is no danger that we will do anything so foolish and ineffectual as Dr. Mell fears."

"I, for one, and I speak for my brethren generally, avoid partisanship and offensive personalities in the pulpits and in the streets. But it would be in my judgment the most creditable attitude for me to pretend not to be intensely concerned about the political-moral situation which has been thrust upon us in Georgia."

"The warning of Dr. Mell that unless the preachers watch their step he may lose his job does not go very far with some of us. As citizens and moral leaders, we think for ourselves and think prayerfully. I trust. But we are not cowards nor nonentities."

"The truth is the pastors who are personally aroused in this situation are not the main fact of it. They are standing with the people to whom they minister, who are aroused—their deacons, stewards, elders, Sunday school teachers—and mothers."

TOCCOA FALLS SINGERS IN DECATUR PROGRAM

Decatur, Ga., July 26.—(Special.) One of the most interesting features to be presented here in quite a while was the musical and picture program rendered here Thursday night by the quartet of the Toccoa Falls institute. Delightful songs and instrumental accompaniment, augmented by beautiful scenes taken around Toccoa Falls and the Toccoa river evoked great applause from several hundred persons, comprising the audience at the entertainment, which was held in the First Presbyterian church.

The quartet of the institute was composed of Mrs. T. Mathews, soprano; Mrs. K. Barnes, alto; William D. R. L. Tenor, and R. A. Leaky, bass. In addition Mrs. Mathews rendered suitable piano selections, which were well received. Mrs. Barnes and Mrs. Leaky are members of the faculty of the institute, which is a training school for Christian workers. Messrs. R. L. Tenor and R. A. Leaky are students of the musical department of the school.

Thursday night's program was carried out under the personal direction of E. Kelly Barnes, a member of the faculty. Mrs. R. A. Forrest, wife of the president of Toccoa Falls institute, delivered a brief and interesting talk regarding the purposes and the work being done by the institute.

Recent marketing of 1929 models by leading automobile manufacturers, coupled with indications cast by a record sale of full year licenses for 1928, caused the office of the secretary of state to anticipate a new high level for the sale of half-year license tags beginning August 1.

Mail orders for auto tags for the remainder of the year will not be received, the office reported, but a half rate will be afforded for those seeking licenses for the remaining five months. ## CITIZENS SOUTHERN SEEKS TO RECOVER MORTGAGE LOANS

MADDOX ANSWERS ANSWORTH QUERY

Rome, Ga., July 26.—(AP)—Holding that every party member is entitled to urge his personal views concerning prohibition, G. Ed Maddox, chairman of the Georgia democratic executive committee, has replied to an open letter from Bishop W. N. Answorth, of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, asking by what right Governor Al Smith said he expected to seek changes in the law in view of the democratic platform. The bishop's stand on the question, and that of John A. Baskob, chairman of the national democratic committee, but wrote the bishop that "every member of the party, be he nominee or mere party follower, has the right to express and urge his own personal views."

Referring to Governor Smith, his letter continued that "inasmuch as he has emphatically declared that he would honestly enforce the prohibition laws as long as they are a part of our statute law, I am clearly of the opinion that there is nothing in the platform which excludes him from urging a modification of the law as he sees fit, though frankly I consider it a hopeless undertaking on his part."

GOLF COURSE MONEY IS MADE AVAILABLE

Money for the construction of a nine hole golf course in John A. White park was made available Thursday afternoon when Acting Mayor Claude L. Ashley approved a $4,000 appropriation sought by the park committee of council. The alderman board concurred in the paper at a special meeting Thursday afternoon.

Other papers concurred in by the alderman board and approved by the acting mayor were those appropriating $8,500 for reconstruction of a wall of Payne Memorial church, which collapsed when the city cut through a street, and a rainstorm washed out the foundation, $1,900 as the city's share of group life insurance premiums for the police and fire departments, and $50 per month as a pension for R. A. Lester, employee of the sanitary department, who was injured while on duty on May 28, 1926.

Mr. Ashley signed the contract with the Aetna Life Insurance company for the group insurance. Policemen and firemen taking the policies are to pay 17 cents a week for $1,000 worth of insurance.

In the alderman board meeting, a paper which would change the type of paving on the lower levels and approaches of the viaducts from plain concrete to concrete base with asphalt top at a cost of approximately $10,000 additional was passed by a 4-3 vote, but was held up when Alderman J. C. Murphy served notice for reconsideration at the next meeting of the board.

COUNTRY'S OLDEST ACTIVE EDITOR DIES IN KNOXVILLE, TENN.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 26.—(AP)—Captain William Rule, founder and editor of the Knoxville Journal and the country's oldest active newspaper editor, died here today after an operation for appendicitis.

An officer in the union army in the war between the states, Captain Rule began newspaper work at the age of 21, "just drifting into it," as he often told friends in later years. His first service in the publishing business was seen on Brownlow's Whig, published by "Parson" William G. Brownlow.

It was in 1885, after he had established himself firmly as a writer and publisher following his return from the war, that he founded the Knoxville Journal. Adolph S. Ochs, owner of the New York Times, was once an office boy for Captain Rule.

Captain Rule virtually died "in harness," as he always had wished his end would come. He had been party follower, has the right to express and urge his own personal views, as he has said in his daily routine that he had visited his office each day.

YOUNG COLOMBIANS WOULD JOIN SANDINO

Bogota, Colombia, July 26.—(AP)—Press dispatches from Medellin state that a group of young men are anxious to join the forces of the Nicaraguan rebel leader, General Augusto Sandino.

They have petitioned newspapers in that city to open a public subscription for defraying the cost of their transportation to Nicaragua.

Brigadier General Logan Feland, commanding the marines in Nicaragua, was believed to have learned the damage that had been inflicted. It was believed at headquarters, however, that a number of casualties had resulted.

Marine officers thought that the band attacked was the immediate bodyguard of General Sandino. He is known to be in that district. Sandino, however, seldom appears in the front rank when there is fighting in progress. Preferring to direct the operations from a distance, he has been seen in the rear of the fighting.

POOR HUSBANDS IN ALIMONY CLUB, RECORDS REVEAL

Chicago, July 26.—(AP)—Poor husbands of Chicago, who have not enough money to keep a checking account, pay alimony totaling $300,000 annually by the postal money order route.

The figures were revealed yesterday by James A. Keas, clerk of the municipal court, where remittance records are handled.

"It isn't only the rich who pay alimony," he said.

Most of the money orders, the records show, are sent to the office on Monday, indicating that the working man dependent on his Saturday pay check waits until pay day to send his ex-wife her legal allowance.

WOMAN IS KILLED NEAR GREENSBORO BY LIGHTNING BOLT

Greensboro, Ga., July 26.—(Special.)—Mrs. Marshall Bryant, of Walker's, Greene county, was instantly killed by lightning this afternoon. With an infant in her arms, she was crossing from one house to another when the bolt struck. The baby was uninjured. She is survived by her husband and several other relatives.

She had started before word of the encounter reached headquarters that Sandino was near the border, which he sometimes probably crossed into Honduras but returned again to Nicaragua.

46 MEN ARRESTED FOR FATAL WRECK AT HORWAH, BENGAL

Calcutta, India, July 26.—(AP)—Forty-six men were under arrest today in connection with a train wreck at Horwah, Bengal, on July 9, in which 18 persons were killed.

During an inquiry into the disaster evidence showed the line had been tampered with. Six men were arrested and one of them made a statement which led to the arrest of 40 others today.

PEACOCK NAMED CHIEF OF POLICE AT BAINBRIDGE

Bainbridge, Ga., July 26.—At a called session of city council with Dr. W. L. Wilkinson, mayor, presiding, A. K. Peacock became chief of police of Bainbridge. Mr. Peacock has served the city three years as street superintendent.

MARINE FLIERS ATTACK SANDINO

Managua, Nicaragua, July 26.—(AP)—American marine fliers were believed today to have inflicted a number of casualties on the bodyguard of General Augustino Sandino, insurgent leader.

Three of the five planes which sought out the insurgent position near the Honduran border were struck by rebel rifle and machine gun fire. The damage was not considered serious.

The marines met the attack with machine guns, rifles and bombs, showing the insurgent camp.

The air squadron was led by Major Ross E. Rowell, chief of the marine air service in Nicaragua, and by Major L. M. Bourne, Jr., who will succeed him shortly. Hopping off from Managua, they headed for the district a few miles south of the Honduran border near the confluence of the Potea and Coco rivers. A week ago planes flying over that region had been fired upon without result and this attack gave the marines the location of the rebel position.

The airmen flew over the camp, which is a small lumber mill owned by a German named Guille and had recently been seized by insurgents, they were fired upon. The marines immediately brought their rifles and machine guns into action and also dropped bombs on the camp.

Because of the dense growth of the forest it was impossible to learn the damage that had been inflicted. It was believed at headquarters, however, that a number of casualties had resulted.

Marine officers thought that the band attacked was the immediate bodyguard of General Sandino. He is known to be in that district. Sandino, however, seldom appears in the front rank when there is fighting in progress. Preferring to direct the operations from a distance, he has been seen in the rear of the fighting.

"It isn't only the rich who pay alimony," he said.

Most of the money orders, the records show, are sent to the office on Monday, indicating that the working man dependent on his Saturday pay check waits until pay day to send his ex-wife her legal allowance.

With an infant in her arms, she was crossing from one house to another when the bolt struck. The baby was uninjured. She is survived by her husband and several other relatives.

She had started before word of the encounter reached headquarters that Sandino was near the border, which he sometimes probably crossed into Honduras but returned again to Nicaragua.

MARINE FLIERS ATTACK SANDINO

Managua, Nicaragua, July 26.—(AP)—American marine fliers were believed today to have inflicted a number of casualties on the bodyguard of General Augustino Sandino, insurgent leader.

Three of the five planes which sought out the insurgent position near the Honduran border were struck by rebel rifle and machine gun fire. The damage was not considered serious.

The marines met the attack with machine guns, rifles and bombs, showing the insurgent camp.

The air squadron was led by Major Ross E. Rowell, chief of the marine air service in Nicaragua, and by Major L. M. Bourne, Jr., who will succeed him shortly. Hopping off from Managua, they headed for the district a few miles south of the Honduran border near the confluence of the Potea and Coco rivers. A week ago planes flying over that region had been fired upon without result and this attack gave the marines the location of the rebel position.

The airmen flew over the camp, which is a small lumber mill owned by a German named Guille and had recently been seized by insurgents, they were fired upon. The marines immediately brought their rifles and machine guns into action and also dropped bombs on the camp.

Because of the dense growth of the forest it was impossible to learn the damage that had been inflicted. It was believed at headquarters, however, that a number of casualties had resulted.

Marine officers thought that the band attacked was the immediate bodyguard of General Sandino. He is known to be in that district. Sandino, however, seldom appears in the front rank when there is fighting in progress. Preferring to direct the operations from a distance, he has been seen in the rear of the fighting.

YOUNG COLOMBIANS WOULD JOIN SANDINO

Bogota, Colombia, July 26.—(AP)—Press dispatches from Medellin state that a group of young men are anxious to join the forces of the Nicaraguan rebel leader, General Augusto Sandino.

They have petitioned newspapers in that city to open a public subscription for defraying the cost of their transportation to Nicaragua.

Brigadier General Logan Feland, commanding the marines in Nicaragua, was believed to have learned the damage that had been inflicted. It was believed at headquarters, however, that a number of casualties had resulted.

Marine officers thought that the band attacked was the immediate bodyguard of General Sandino. He is known to be in that district. ## POOR HUSBANDS IN ALIMONY CLUB, RECORDS REVEAL

Chicago, July 26.—(AP)—Poor husbands of Chicago, who have not enough money to keep a checking account, pay alimony totaling $300,000 annually by the postal money order route.

The figures were revealed yesterday by James A. Keas, clerk of the municipal court, where remittance records are handled.

"It isn't only the rich who pay alimony," he said.

Most of the money orders, the records show, are sent to the office on Monday, indicating that the working man dependent on his Saturday pay check waits until pay day to send his ex-wife her legal allowance.

O. R. RANDALL HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

O. R. Randall, of 1550 Peachtree road, prominent Atlanta and former vice president of the Georgia company of the Nu-Grange Company of America, was knocked unconscious and probably seriously injured early Thursday afternoon when an inbound Walter-West View street car crashed into the rear of the automobile in which he was riding. The accident occurred at the corner of Peachtree street and Alexander street.

According to a statement made by Mr. Randall to his wife, he was in the automobile with his son, E. A. Randall, of a Ponce de Leon avenue address, who was driving. The auto had stopped on Peachtree street, near Alexander, waiting for passengers to alight from a street car, when another street car, operated by Motorman J. S. Martin, and Conductor N. S. Walker crashed into the rear of his machine.

Mr. Randall was knocked unconscious by the collision, and received a badly sprained back, deep laceration on the right leg, and a possible fracture of the vertebrae. He was taken to his home, where he is being treated by private physician E. A. Randall was not injured.

met in their own way the condition which confronted them in those days, but it is likely true that bishops, ministers and laymen of our church in our day and generation have met with equal frankness the great moral issues that have confronted them."

Duty of Church. "The statement continued, 'that in the episcopal address of 1922 it is declared that it is incumbent upon every good citizen (ministers and laymen) to work for the placing in power of men who are sincere friends of the law.'

"Also in the last recorded action of the general conference (1922), it is declared: 'That in our state—from constant to governor—and in the nation—from revenue agent to president—officials must be selected who believe in enforcement not only because prohibition is the law, but because it ought to be the law and all our people (ministers as well as laymen) are called upon to exert their full influence as Christians and as patriotic citizens of our republic.'

Cannot Retire. "It would be an unthinkable repudiation of our personal responsibility as Christian citizens and a base betrayal of those who have the right to look upon us for moral leadership to retire from the field at this critical juncture in the warfare with this age-long enemy of mankind."

"We notify the defenders and the advocates of the liquor traffic that the moral forces of the country will not be driven from the field by the cry that they are 'bringing the church into politics' because they are opposing the election to the presidency of a man whose personal and official record both brand him as the outstanding enemy of national prohibition, for which great reformers have themselves not only as citizens, but also as Christian ministers, been working for years."

George and Crisp Urge Party Fealty

George Cites Rules.

Asserting that some question has arisen in Webster county, "as in every other county in Georgia and in every state of the south as to whether we should abide by the action of the Houston convention in selecting a nominee," the senator reminded his hearers that the selection had been made under the rules of the party.

"Governor Smith went into that convention as I did," said the senator. "He was aided by the two-thirds rule. He took his chances with the rest of us. I did not agree then, do not agree now and never expect to agree with Governor Smith on many vital issues, yet he is the regular nominee of a regular democratic convention."

"The democratic party is the traditional party of the south. It is the party that protected us during reconstruction days that tried the souls of men and women. It is the party that has preserved white rule."

"If under the dictates of your conscience you feel that you ought to abandon the democratic party, of course you have the right to do so; but I want to remind you that you are not joining the new movement. You have joined forces with the ancient enemy. The time has come to do some deep thinking and to weigh things that really matter."

Flays G. O. P. Graft.

"There was never a time in the history of the republican party when it represented more of corruption, more of the things that stain the schoolhouse, yonder church and the Methodist and Baptist everywhere stand. During the past two republican administrations the debauchery of public office reached into the cabinet, with the actual connivance, or at least indifference, of the president himself."

Republicans Not Dry.

"Herbert Hoover is clean. I grant you that. But back of him stand the same men who elected Warren Harding; the men who struck the death blow into the bleeding heart of our last democratic president, Woodrow Wilson. I cannot say my own indorsement to this blackest page in the history, not only of America, but of free government everywhere."

"The prohibition question he would fall in his tracks before I would again see the licensed sale of liquor."

"Yes, being a republican is not necessarily being a prohibitionist," he said, referring to Andrew Mellon as "the owner of more stock in breweries and distilleries than any other man in this nation."

"Then how could we expect better enforcement of the prohibition law under Hoover than under Smith," the senator queried, asserting that enforcement of prohibition depended on the congress selected by the people.

"Any honorable man or woman has a complete right to express his or her views on any political question and no other man has a right to say then nay," declared George. "I would die for the right of any man to vote for Hoover if he wants to, but, personally, I would as soon die as vote for Hoover and his gang. I will make my fight under the old flag and in the same ranks."

Congressman Crisp spoke emphatically in behalf of Governor Smith as the party's presidential nominee and expressed his intention to cast his

Police Raid Greenwich Village Night Club

35 MEN AND 15 WOMEN ARRESTED

New York, July 26.—(AP)—"Jazz" was the physical combat. The village intelligence was won to sit and think, or, as police contend, sit and drink, was raided early today and 35 men and 15 women were arrested. The frequenters were charged with disorderly conduct and held at the Charles street police station for a hearing. The promoter, Walter Anderson, 32-years-old, and a waiter, John Murphy, 50, were charged with violation of the Volstead act.

Tete-a-tete discussions, were going on when seven headquarters detectives announced everyone was under arrest. This abrupt interruption of the intimate conversations aroused a murmuring against the invaders which shortly turned into physical combat. The detectives, however, quickly quelled the disturbance and started to load the men and women into six waiting patrol wagons.

While the exodus was underway someone threw the switch extinguishing the electric lights and once again a little ensued. Many of the villagers and detectives were roughly handled and somewhat battered in the melee that followed.

Police said the resort had been under observation for several days as a result of complaints from residents of the neighborhood. The detectives said they had made several purchases of liquor.

Her Husband Declines Responsibility for Debts

Washington, July 26.—(AP)—Bids for oil field material, representing an investment of several hundred thousand dollars on the Teapot Dome naval petroleum reserve in Wyoming, were asked today by the navy department.

The bids were to be opened September 5, at the office of Lieutenant Commander C. A. Trevel, inspector of naval petroleum reserve No. 3, at Casper, Wyo.

The material offered for sale has been surveyed by the navy department and designated as worthless because of the inoperative status of the reserve. This status was maintained throughout the receivership of the reserve from February, 1927, to January, 1928, and has been continued by the navy department since it was returned to the jurisdiction of the navy.

All of the material set up by the Sinclair interests, which held the reserve before it was returned to the government, for the development of the reserve, including 17 miles of pipeline, a pumping station, derricks, telephone lines and a quantity of crude oil in the tanks is offered for sale.

Under the terms of the sale, all of the material must be removed from the reserve at the expense of the purchasers.

The navy department estimated that the original investment by the Sinclair interests was about $1,000,000 and appraised the property as worth only $100,785 in its present condition.

CURTIS TO MAKE CAPITAL OFFICE HIS HEADQUARTERS

Washington, July 26.—(AP)—Senator Curtis, republican vice presidential nominee, may share the newly established party base at Washington with Herbert Hoover during the approaching campaign.

Concentration of both members of the ticket at Washington together with national officers of the party promises to make the capital a real headquarters. It is the first time in many a campaign that Washington has been used to any extent as a party base, Chicago and New York usually winning this position.

There seems to be no doubt that Mr. Hoover will get back to the capital at an early date after his formal notification in California August 11 in order to assume command of his own campaign. The republican candidate is counting much on organization and he is going to be at the helm to watch it function.

Of course, Senator Curtis will be on the stump during much of the campaign but with prospects that he will be called on to share a part in the eastern offensive he is giving some consideration to using his capital office as his working base. After the notification exercises at Topeka, Kansas, August 18.

However, the vice presidential candidate plans to go far and wide about his homeland in the middle western agricultural region and on those tours he will work out of Topeka.

BREAK IN TORRID NORTHWEST WAVE EXPECTED TODAY

Seattle, July 26.—(AP)—The Pacific northwest continued to suffer today in a record-breaking heat wave with no relief in sight for 24 hours. M. B. Summers, U. S. meteorologist here, predicted by tomorrow the high-temperature westerly winds would modify the warm spell.

Despite the heat, no deaths nor prostrations were reported today. The hottest spot in the northwest yesterday was Maston, eastern Washington, where the mercury touched 114 degrees. Portland reported the highest temperature in the coast section with 98.

Denver, July 26.—(AP)—Discussion for further financing and building of an international memorial temple in Washington was planned Friday delegates to the triennial convention of the Order of the Eastern Star, following yesterday's announcement that $300,000 already had been raised for its erection.

Fifteen candidates sought the offices of grand conductress and associate conductress in today's elections. Several hundred members of the Order of Eastern Star stormed the doors of the city auditorium late last night when they were denied entrance to an executive session of the order's triennial convention at which the proposed revision of the ritual was up for consideration.

The assassin, still being examined, may be tried by a civil court, it has been indicated. Investigation of men who may have prompted the assassination is continuing.

Leaders of the Obregonistas are expected to meet when they have returned from Sonora, where the president-elect was buried, and reach an agreement on a candidate to succeed Obregon.

President Calles appears to be favored for the vacancy by a large number of Obregon supporters, but he has not announced whether he is willing to continue in office.

BLAST SETS FIRE TO BRITISH CRAFT; SIX ARE INJURED

Malta, July 26.—(AP)—An explosion occurred aboard the British steamship Arracan this morning. Ambulances removed many injured persons to the hospital.

Number two and number three holds caught fire. The vessel arrived here yesterday with a cargo of Polish coal and was en route to Venice.

London, July 26.—(AP)—Agents for the British steamship Arracan, which was set afire by an explosion at Malta today, announced that six persons were injured in the blast. Those hurt included the second officer. It was stated that none of the injuries were serious.

Lord Ashley, heir to the Earl of Shaftesbury, has published in the London papers that he will no longer be responsible for debts incurred by his wife, Lady Ashley, the former Sylvia Hawkes, who was a leading actress on the London stage.

NEW CHICAGO POLICE CHIEF APPOINTED

Chicago, July 26.—(AP)—Reports of an extensive shake-up in Mayor Thompson's administration, circulated since the defeat of the Thompson forces in the April primaries, gained some vestige of fact today with the appointment of a new commissioner of police.

William Russell, a policeman for 28 years and a deputy commissioner, was named head of the police department, succeeding Michael Hughes, whose resignation was announced yesterday. Russell's appointment, effective August 1, until which time he is acting commissioner, was announced by Samuel Ettelson, corporation counsel, to whom word was sent by Mayor Thompson, now vacationing in Wisconsin.

Hughes resigned yesterday from his bed in a hospital where he had undergone an operation. His resignation followed by a week that of Charles Fitzmorris, city comptroller, and Otto Schmidt, member of the board of education. Hughes gave ill health as the cause, but it also was reported that Mayor Thompson, dissatisfied with law enforcement, had asked Hughes to quit.

On the heels of the commissioner's withdrawal came rumors today that a dozen other city officials soon were to step out, but these reports were met with silence or denial by those mentioned. Mr. Ettelson himself was mentioned most frequently. He said he knew nothing about it.

His assistant, James Breen, and Theodore Thompson, head of the civil service commission, were among others mentioned as intending to resign. Both denied the reports.

Mayor Thompson has been in Wisconsin for two weeks and is not expected back before the first of September.

Roosevelt, president American Construction council and vice president Fidelity and Deposit company, of Maryland.

Florida Democrats Planning to Bar Party Bolters

Tampa, Fla., July 26.—(AP)—Democrats of Florida who plan to support the republican nominee for president or any other office, will run the risk of being barred from their party altogether, according to a statement by prominent democrats here today. Under the state laws all that is required to bar a bolter from voting his party ticket in future primaries is a challenge of his right to cast his ballot. He may clear himself by affidavit, but as that requires him to swear he did not vote for a candidate of another party and evidence is offered to prove it false, he is liable to a charge of perjury, which carries a sentence not exceeding 20 years in prison.

DEAD THREE DAYS, MAN'S BODY FOUND ERECT IN CHAIR

Major Berry is president of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union of North America and was one of the founders of the American Legion.

MINERS, OPERATORS ADJOURN CONFERENCE

Columbus, Ohio, July 26.—(AP)—After four hours of discussion behind closed doors here today, executives of the United Mine Workers in Ohio and nine state coal operators, ended their joint conference without agreeing upon the date or feasibility of another joint meeting to discuss a wage scale.

Lee Hall, president of the United Mine Workers in Ohio, announced that the union would call another joint conference at a date to be decided by the union executive board within a day or two.

"We discussed the entire mine situation in Ohio very thoroughly, and were able to get a better understanding of each other's viewpoints," Mr. Hall said. "It now remains for our executive committee to set the exact date of the next meeting."

Mr. Hall said that there was no discussion of any basis for a wage scale at the meeting, and that the subject would be made the distinct purpose of the next joint conference.

The operators left the meeting unwilling to comment upon anything that happened.

Several of them indicated, however, that they were not as well satisfied with the day's proceedings as Mr. Hall had indicated. One operator, who refused to be quoted, said that "absolutely nothing" was accomplished at the meeting.

MEMPHIS IS FAVORED FOR BAR CONVENTION

Seattle, July 26.—(AP)—Memphis, Tenn., appeared to be favored as the probable choice of the American Bar association for its 1929 convention at the session of the 50th anniversary convention of the association here today.

Sentiment among the delegates seemed to be crystallizing in favor of Memphis, with the withdrawal of Fort Worth, Texas, from the race among cities for the honor of playing host to the barriesters next year.

The morning session was marked by the adoption by the association of a report by Gurney E. Newlin, chairman of the section on mineral law, calling upon congress to aid in the conservation of the national oil supply. Newlin outlined the condition of America's oil reserve, and stressed the need for official action looking toward its conservation.

Committee reports occupied the afternoon session. F. Dumont Smith of Hutchinson, Kan., chairman of the committee on American citizenship, was the first speaker, followed by the program by William C. Kinkaid, of Cheyenne, Wyo., chairman of the committee on education of aliens and naturalization.

Sanfordtown, Ky., July 26.—(AP)—Webb Hogan, 33, was killed by a shot from behind a rose bush in the yard of his home early today as he stepped on to the porch to investigate noises he thought were made by prowlers.

As Hogan fell mortally wounded at the feet of his bride of two months a man ran from the shrubbery, joined by several others who appeared to be waiting for him, and they all fled. Mrs. Hogan said her husband had no enemies as far as she knew.

SALARIES SOUGHT FOR NEW SCHOOLS

Means of providing $15,000 for additional teachers for the two new junior high schools, serving the first and fifth wards and the eleventh and twelfth wards, will be considered at a meeting of school board members and councilmen at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon in the mayor's office.

William A. Sutton, in a recent letter issued on the subject of the two new junior high schools, pointed out that no funds are available from school monies to pay for the additional teachers needed for the occupation of the portable buildings, and that unless the city can furnish the money for the teachers' salaries, the two schools will not be able to open.

A meeting is to be held in Mayor Ragsdale's office at 10 o'clock this morning with reference to the bill of approximately $15,000, which is still owned to the National Building Owners and Managers' association for stenographic and other expenses incurred in the survey of the school building and new city hall plans, it was announced Thursday.

George W. Powell, president of the board of education, and chairman of a special committee of the board of education appointed to confer with Mayor Ragsdale on the debt, visited the mayor's office early Thursday afternoon with Allen J. Allen, a member of the committee, and presenting to Acting Mayor Claude L. Ashley a review of the situation from the board of education's standpoint. The board of education contends that it agreed to pay only $15,000 for the survey, and that the additional expense of $12,000 should be borne by the city.

ORPHAN CHILDREN TO BE ENTERTAINED BY EXCHANGE CLUB

The annual "Sunshine Special" outing for poor and orphan children of this city will be held this year under the auspices of the Exchange club of Atlanta on August 7. Approximately 500 children from the public homes of Atlanta will be entertained for the entire day as the guests of the club.

According to plans now being made by William E. Arnold, chairman of the outing committee, the day's entertainment will begin with an automobile parade through the downtown section of the city. Members of the club then will transport their guests to one of the amusement parks near the city, where an all-day session of fun and amusement will be offered.

The Exchange club has endeavored to include all the children that it can possibly accommodate, and invites the citizens of Atlanta to aid by supplying automobiles to transport the children. Those who are able to help are asked to communicate with Mr. Arnold.

TYPHOID FEVER CASES REDUCED TO LOWEST LEVEL

Typhoid fever has been reduced to the lowest level in the history of Atlanta this year through the medium of intensive prevention and control work, the city health department reported Thursday. Only 68 cases of typhoid fever have been reported in Atlanta from January 1 up to the present time, it was said. The first six months of 1927 recorded 93 cases and 18 deaths, it was shown.

PEOPLE ARE CRITICAL OF A PIMPLY FACE!

No longer do people pity a person with pimples or other displeasing skin blemishes. In fact they are apt to criticize and avoid such a person, because pimples are usually a sign of carelessness and neglect. If you want to be admired for a clear, healthy complexion ask for Black and White Ointment and use it according to directions. It is pleasant to use, highly beneficial and scientifically safe. For best results use Black and White Skin Soap with Black and White Ointment. All dealers sell them at small cost.

Burns Club Plans Birthday Party For 5 Members

A birthday celebration for five popular members of the Burns club, all born during August, will be held at the clubhouse next Wednesday night, with honor guests including Dr. Joseph Jacobs, prominent Atlanta druggist; Attorney Joseph Humphries, president of the club; Walter B. Stewart, chairman of the Fulton county commission; Attorney John M. Graham, attached to the supreme court, and David Buchanan, native of Scotland and club superintendent.

The regular August business meeting of the club, called for 6:30 o'clock, will precede by half an hour an elaborate dinner at which Governor L. G. Hardman will be the principal speaker. The dinner will be served in true Scottish style, and is being planned under direction of Mrs. Buchanan, it was announced.

Another speaker will be Presiding Justice Marcus W. Beck, of the Georgia supreme court. A musical program in keeping with the Scottish dinner will be given by D. McKinlay, soloist of the West End Baptist church; A. W. Browning, a talented singer of Scottish ballads, and John Neas, accompanist.

$150,000 FORESTRY FUND IS COMPLETED

Completion of a $150,000 fund for the promotion of forestry education in Georgia, Florida and Mississippi was announced here Thursday by representatives of the American Forestry association.

Ovid M. Butler, executive secretary of the association, in an announcement made public Thursday, said representatives of the three states at a meeting here last night reported completion of the state quotas of the fund to be used in a three-year campaign in rural schools to educate against abuse of the forest.

Each of the states, by popular subscription, has raised funds to provide for the purchase of the school fund of $8,500 by each state. For each $8,500, the American Forestry association appropriated $10,000.

Education by motion pictures and lectures will feature the campaign for prevention of forest fires, and for utilization and cultivation of the forests. Motor trucks equipped with complete moving picture apparatus, lantern slides and forestry literature will be placed in the schools for use of both teachers and children.

"In no section of the country," declared Mr. Butler, "are forest fires so currently widespread and so detrimental to forest regeneration as in the south. The seriousness of the situation is reflected in the fact that 80 per cent of all forest fires reported in the United States during the past 10 years have occurred in the southern states. More than one-third of the entire pine area embracing millions of acres has been so completely lumbered and so repeatedly devastated by fire that it lies idle and non-productive."

Among those present at the meeting here to discuss the work were: Hugh P. Baker, state forester, Florida; Roy Hogue, state forester, Mississippi; George Collingwood, forester, American Forestry association; C. B. Harmon, president, and Bonnell H. Stone, secretary, Georgia Forestry association; R. M. Lufburrow, state forester, Georgia; and W. C. McCormick, formerly with U. S. forest service, who will direct the campaign.

LEAGUE OF MERCY OF ARMY ASSIGNED TO VISITATION DUTY

Assignment of members of the Salvation Army League of Mercy for religious services and friendly visitation in hospitals and prisons of the city was announced Thursday by Mrs. Walter Peacock, secretary, wife of the army's Georgia field secretary. Mrs. Brigadier H. H. Bayes and Mrs. Captain James Asher were assigned to Battle Hill sanitarium; Mrs. J. Hirschler and Mrs. Peacock to Fulton tower; Mrs. Captain Fred Laddlow and Mrs. Ensign Charles Dodd to the Home for Incurables; Mrs. Adjutant Arne Lekan to the Confederate Veterans' home; Mrs. Peacock to the city stockade, and Adjutant McRae to United States Veterans' Hospital No. 48.

ATLANTA RANKS 29TH IN COUNTRY IN AUTO FATALITIES

Of 77 major cities reporting deaths from auto accident during the 52-week period which ended July 14, Atlanta ranked 29th, a compilation by the United States department of commerce showed Thursday. The survey showed Atlanta to have the highest auto death rate in the south per 100,000 population.

Despite the city's growing crusade for safety, a rise from 48 deaths by accident within corporate limits during a corresponding 52-week period a year to 52 for the era just closed is noted. A decline of from 68 to 48 deaths occurring here from accidents both within and near the city was recorded.

Only New Orleans, with 87 reported deaths, surpassed Atlanta's figure in the southeast. Atlanta's death rate from automobile accidents per 100,000 population was 20.5 for the past 52 weeks.

HARDMAN'S CHIEFS TAKE CHARGE HERE

T. Hicks Fort, of Columbus, and Sam A. Nunn, of Perry, arrived in Atlanta Thursday and took charge of the campaign headquarters of Governor L. G. Hardman, located in the Henry Grady hotel, and greeted the visitors who called during the day. C. E. Bennis, Butler newspaperman, who is in charge of Governor Hardman's publicity, also is on the ground and issued the following statement:

"The governor's campaign managers, Messrs. Nunn and Fort, who are wise in counsel, experienced in state affairs and well qualified to handle every issue that may arise during the campaign, are conscientiously and fearlessly, have already demonstrated that they will permit no grass to grow under their feet for the next six weeks."

"The campaign will be conducted throughout on a high plane, in keeping with the wisdom and grace and dignity of Governor Hardman. It promises, however, to be a most vigorous one in the governor's interest, to the end that he may be successful, as he justly deserves, such victory at the polls on September 12 as will give the great state of Georgia first place, as she has always stood, in the sight of the other states of the nation, by placing a high valuation on its chief executive when he, as Governor Hardman, has stood four times in his constructive views; in his policies for the state that her people exercise proper respect for the majesty of the law; that the men who may be elected to the state be entitled to as much consideration as the state's wonderful resources, as well as development of country life, which builds greater cities, providing for better rural schools and for higher education; and for a creditable system of public highways at the earliest moment possible. On such a record Governor Hardman has been weighed in the balance and in every sense has been found worthy of the confidence and trust of the public."

"Close talk is being kept on every county in the state, and of the 102 counties there is every reason to justify the prediction of this that the vast majority of the state will be found in the column where the votes of all counties are counted."

"The governor will begin his speaking engagements at Cordell on Saturday next. On that date he will present facts concerning his administration and what he has meant to the agricultural, industrial, educational and economic interests of the state, which will be of more than passing interest to the public. He will be unable, much to his regret, to accept all invitations for speaking engagements. He will cover the state as thoroughly as possible. Dates and places of his visits will be given out from time to time from campaign headquarters."

ATLANTA TARS LEAVE FOR CRUISE TONIGHT

Bound for Charleston and their summer training cruise, approximately 125 officers and men of the Atlanta naval reserve unit, will leave the Terminal station at 9 o'clock tonight aboard a special train.

The reservists will arrive at the Carolina base early Saturday morning and will board the United States destroyer Kane and Lawrence. From Charleston they will sail to about Newport, R. I., where they will provision.

From the Rhode Island port the destroyers with their Atlanta crews will proceed to Menasha Bight, the rendezvous of the scout fleet. Here the Kane and Lawrence will join the rest of the squadron, made up of about 17 destroyers, cruisers and supply ships manned by naval reserve units from cities throughout the country.

Education by motion pictures and lectures will feature the campaign for prevention of forest fires, and for utilization and cultivation of the forests. Motor trucks equipped with complete moving picture apparatus, lantern slides and forestry literature will be placed in the schools for use of both teachers and children.

"In no section of the country," declared Mr. Butler, "are forest fires so currently widespread and so detrimental to forest regeneration as in the south. ## SOUTH ATLANTA A. M. E. MEETINGS ARE POPULAR

Jackson, Ga., July 26.—(Special.) The Sunday school and missionary conventions of the South Atlanta district of the African Methodist Episcopal church, meeting in daily sessions in Bethel church here, is attracting large crowds and the appreciation of the public toward the meeting is seen from the manner the delegates are being cared for.

Rev. J. H. McFarlin, D. D., presiding elder of the district, is rushing the business of the conventions to a finish. He cited the work of the church and spoke of the want of consecrated help in a surprising number of instances, declaring that this assistance has not been forthcoming as it should.

N. B. Chambliss, special instructor, had charge of the "model Sunday school" work today, assisted by Rev. L. R. Parker, D. D., and the noonday sermon was preached by Rev. W. M. Trydelle.

Delegates completed reports on the condition of the work being done in their respective churches. Plans are under way toward starting the convention throughout the district for the "S O S call" for August 15.

A. M. E. SUNDAY SCHOOL MEET HEARS DR. MC'CAIN

Hampton, Ga., July 26.—(Special.) The second day's session of the Griffin district Sunday school and missionary convention was opened today with Dr. J. E. McCain presiding. Devotions were conducted by Revs. L. L. Fluelen and J. King.

Reports from the various delegates relative to the condition of the Sunday school work in the district featured the session today.

In addressing the delegates, Dr. McCain, presiding elder of the district, stressed revivals and urged the ministers to preach Jesus Christ. He commended Bishop Cadogan for his message to the ministers of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, urging them to keep politics out of the pulpit.

Col. J. H. Peeples welcomed the convention in behalf of the white people of Hampton. He said: "The Sunday school is the greatest manufacturing plant in the world. It manufactures preachers, doctors, lawyers, business men and all others who stand for human uplift."

Dr. J. R. Taliaferro preached the annual sermon and Dr. S. H. Rome preached the educational sermon. The missionary women will open their session tomorrow.

FAILS IN ATTEMPT TO ROW ACROSS
LAKE MICHIGAN

Milwaukee, July 26.—(AP)—Rough weather cramps the style of non-stop rowboat aspirants as well as aviators and channel swimmers.

But the man behind the oars cannot "land"—and when Michael Eicher, 34, was six hours out on Lake Michigan today on a choppy lake and a north-west rain and wind, he abandoned his attempt to row across the lake, having had to spend six hours on a fatiguing return to do it.

In his self-made boat, which he claimed would tip over, though he sat on its side, Eicher, an ex-sailor, started early yesterday determined to make a non-stop rowing trip across the lake. When 16 miles out, however, the weather changed his mind.

Despite the failure of his trip, Eicher still contended his boat would not capsize. "The trip showed that conclusively," he said.

TUNNEY HAMMERS
HEENEY INTO DEFEAT

000 and Rickard's loss runs into something between $200,000 and $300,000, which is far more punishment than all the heavyweights in the world ever took.

Heenev never had a chance. He was up against a better boxer, a harder hitter, a faster worker and a smarter fighter. Not even his iron jaw and his iron heart could hope to meet any such crushing handicap.

Going to Slaughter.

At the end of the first round there were prospects of an even fight but while Heenev held the aggressive for the first seven rounds it was much like the aggressive of an oxen going to a slaughter house. For the first seven rounds it was Heenev who walked in and walked forward—it was Tunney who danced away and backed out of danger—but as he backed away or danced away he always left a string of fire behind with lefts and rights that rarely missed. Heenev's punches reminded one of an unarmed man charging a bayonet. He was impaled time and again in the face—around the eyes—in the forehead, on the nose where a fighter can be hit. Tunney's lefts and body rarely missed the big target that kept surging in.

Rights are Accurate.

Tunney's rights, the same battered places were just as accurate. There were times when the champion seemed to be punching the heavy bag, hitting it as he would hit a man, but always swinging in his direction, rarely missed away. For six rounds after the first Tunney kept up this constant fusillade of flying leather. He smacked Heenev's nose, cut up his face, hammered his body, jabbed him and hooked him, but in face of this heavy fire the game Australian refused to back.

Heenev made desperate rushes to get in at close range but his short arms failed to land, and his rare intervals, and even then there was little steam back of any punch. He couldn't hit a fly.

Boats Sink Heart.

If his punch had been as stout as his heart he might have knocked Tunney with a few of the wild swings that landed on head or neck. For seven rounds the operation continued. Tunney, the surgeon, carved Heenev, the patient, with all the implements in the place.

Through this time Tunney was in almost constant retreat, backing away and around, dancing out of reach, but always jabbing and jolting. It was at the end of the eighth round that Tunney saw his chance. By this time he had ripped his hair in the streamers of red ribbons. Early in the eighth round Tunney had a smashing right hand clean against Heenev's left eye.

Beginning of End.

It was a staggering blow and it meant the beginning of the end. Heenev for the first time backed away, blinking out of this wounded eye as one might blink who has suddenly caught a cinder in his eye. Tunney saw the damage he had done and for the first time in the fight the champion took the aggressive. He had given a rare picture of boxing up to date, and now he was back to the kill. As Heenev backed away Tunney followed him with a shower of lefts and rights to the face and body—rights to the face and body—lefts and rights without a return. It was a snapshot of a butcher's shop, a busy morning in the day's work. All through this eighth round Tunney hammered Heenev almost at will. The wonder was that any one could take that much punishment and keep his feet.

Survives Round.

But Heenev survived the round and he also survived the ninth. All through this round Tunney, the surgeon, kept his two knives busy. He cut and cut. Before the round was over Heenev's face looked more like a sight than a human in countenance. He was a moving picture of the Red Sea in action. The slaughter continued through the tenth. By this time the fight had become too one-

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

ON THE EARLY AFTERNOON OF JUNE 25, 1876, MAJOR MARCUS RENO, WITH A BATTALION OF CUSTER'S SEVENTH CAVALRY, CROSSED THE LITTLE BIG HORN RIVER AND RODE DOWN THE VALLEY TO ATTACK THE SIOUX VILLAGE OF SITTING BULL. THE INDIANS WERE AT FIRST PANIC-STRICKEN AT THE SIGHT OF THE "LONG SWORDS," BUT, SEEING THAT RENO'S FORCE WAS SMALL, THEY QUICKLY RALLIED, AND SWEEPED DOWN UPON THE WHITE SOLDIERS LIKE A WHIRLWIND.

It was interesting. It was merely a matter of brief time. For eight or nine rounds Tunney had weakened Heenev with jolting rights to the heart, his most damaging set of blows, and now with a completely outclassed, being cut into sections by superior skill, speed and power. Tunney swarmed over Heenev all through the last five rounds of the fight. Heenev was practically helpless. Punch after punch landed but he wouldn't go down. He bled, bled and bled it all. But near the end of the tenth Tunney drove Heenev half way through the ropes with a steady bombardment and just after Heenev, in a daze, was groping, Tunney landed a heavy right flush to the jaw.

Down Goes Heenev.

There was all the excitement of watching a surgical operation, of watching a game man completely outclassed, being cut into sections by superior skill, speed and power. Tunney swarmed over Heenev all through the last five rounds of the fight. Heenev was practically helpless. Punch after punch landed but he wouldn't go down. He bled, bled and bled it all. Dempsy Arrives.

Jack Dempsey arrived a few minutes before 9 o'clock and slipped in quietly to look at the first heavy-weight championship he had ever seen outside of the ring. A press member of the ring, Dempsey calmly took a row seat and like Rickard and Getz were still talking about the Chicago show and the days of a $250,000 gate. Those were the days. If you don't believe it, ask Tex and Getz. All that was a way away as last September which for the fighting game means another age, as old as the battle of the Mons.

Down Goes Heenev.

There was all the excitement of watching a surgical operation, of watching a game man completely outclassed, being cut into sections by superior skill, speed and power. Tunney swarmed over Heenev all through the last five rounds of the fight. Heenev was practically helpless. Punch after punch landed but he wouldn't go down. He bled, bled and bled it all. But near the end of the tenth Tunney drove Heenev half way through the ropes with a steady bombardment and just after Heenev, in a daze, was groping, Tunney landed a heavy right flush to the jaw.

Dempsy Arrives.

Jack Dempsey arrived a few minutes before 9 o'clock and slipped in quietly to look at the first heavy-weight championship he had ever seen outside of the ring. A press member of the ring, Dempsey calmly took a row seat and like Rickard and Getz were still talking about the Chicago show and the days of a $250,000 gate. Those were the days. If you don't believe it, ask Tex and Getz. All that was a way away as last September which for the fighting game means another age, as old as the battle of the Mons.

The Battle of the Little Big Horn.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

RENO'S "REES" (INDIAN SCOUTS), WHO HAD THE LEFT OF HIS LINE SCATTERED BY THE FIRST ONSLAUGHT OF THE SIOUX, AND FLED IN TERROR, WHILE THE TROOPERS, FIGHTING BRAVELY, WERE FORCED BACK TOWARDS THE RIVER BANK, WHERE THEY MADE A GALLANT STAND IN THE LOW TIMBER THAT FRINGED THE STREAM.

Owens made public his statement to-night through the republican national committee after a call upon Chairman Work.

He explained his position against Smith to newspapermen with the declaration that "I will be damned if I will stand for the Tammany machine and the government of the United States."

"I am an American citizen and I am not a coward. I will not point my finger at any man who has done his duty for his country. I will not say that there is a book by Mr. Werner which contains 50,000 pages of evidence."

The Oklahoma said he did not plan to take any active part in the campaign against Governor Smith. To-night, after he was informed of the governor's Albany declaration, he issued a long statement declaring "Herbert Hoover in my opinion is the best qualified man ever presented by any party in America for the presidency during my life."

American Record for Glider Flight Is Set by German

REMAINS ALOFT 57 MINUTES

North Truro, Mass., July 26.—(AP)—An official American record for a glider flight was established today when Peter Huffelbach, German pilot, remained aloft 57 minutes in a solo flight above the cliffs of the Cape Cod coast at Highland light near here.

The glider took off at 10.30 a. m. from the bluff overlooking the Atlantic near the lighthouse. It reached a height estimated at 300 feet above the sea and swung back and forth over the water at varying heights, finally landing gracefully on the golf links beside the lighthouse.

The only other American record for a flight in a glider is an unofficial one of 9 minutes, 45 seconds, established in 1911 by Orville Wright when he and his brother, Wilbur, were experimenting.

The world's record for gliders was established in Germany where the motorless planes were developed as a result of the airplane restrictions placed upon the Germans after the war. The record for a solo flight is more than 14 hours. Hesselbach who established today's American record, holds the world's record of more than five hours, for a sustained flight with a passenger.

Hesselbach is one of three German glider experts who arrived at Cape Cod several days ago with the intention of developing the sport in America and creating a new world's record, if possible. Today's flight was acted as a stunt that tossed it into the air in the face of a strong breeze on which it lifted and floated in the manner of a sea gull.

1,500 ABOARD WRECKED
MOTOR SHIP ARE SAFE

Hamburg, July 26.—(AP)—The owners of the German motorship Monte Cervantes carrying 1,500 passengers announced today that the ship, which went out on an SOS call yesterday, suffered only slight damage which was caused by floating ice in Bell sound, Spitzbergen.

They stated that they understood repairs had been made and that the Monte Cervantes and the Russian ice breaker Krassin, which went to her assistance, had continued their respective voyages.

The passengers were reported to have had a momentary fright, which was soon allayed by measures to insure the ship's safety.

CERVANTES IN NO DANGER OF SINKING.

Oso, Norway, July 26.—(AP)—Having struck a rock in Bell sound, Spitzbergen, the German motorship Monte Cervantes, with 1,500 passengers aboard, including two Americans, was stated in wireless messages to be in no immediate danger today.

Standing by was the Russian ice breaker Krassin, which rushed to the aid of the Monte Cervantes yesterday when SOS calls were sent out by the German vessel. The Krassin was about to go to Norway for repair of damage received in battering her way through the ice floes to rescue several lives and the Italian disaster when the appeal for aid was broadcast.

The Taming of Elizabeth

By WINIFRED BOGGS

SYNOPSIS

The young Elizabeth is the adored daughter of the late and Elizabeth Barry. When she is 4 years old she runs away from home to avoid punishment for getting into mischief. She is brought home by a neighbor, Miss Smiley.

At 12 Elizabeth runs away again, this time from school and to the home of her Aunt Dolly in London. Dolly, who is almost as flighty as the young Elizabeth, sympathizes with her niece, much to the irritation of her stepson, Stephen Whitty.

After the death of her parents Elizabeth goes to live with her aunt. During the war they keep themselves busy and also amused by performing in amateur theatricals for the benefit of wounded soldiers. Stephen, home on leave, is asked by his stepmother to bring Mark Lennox, a young playwright, to one of their performances.

Shortly after the end of the war Mrs. Whitty dies suddenly in Brighton and Elizabeth learns to her consternation that her aunt has left her the money which left her by her husband and had also disposed of some of Stephen's inheritance as well.

Afraid to face Stephen after this revelation, Elizabeth decided to go to Mark Lennox in London and ask him to get her a job on the stage. Stephen finds her with Mark and, although his business has failed, he offers to help her. She refuses his help and advice and takes a part in Mark's new play. On the opening night she gets so frightened and runs off, leaving an understudy to take over the part. Miss Smiley, who happens to be in London, visiting her cousin, Mrs. White, sees Elizabeth on the street and takes her home to her house. The latter offers her a job as cook. She fails in this role, too, but stays on with Mrs. White as a guest until another job turns up. She calls on Mark Lennox when she goes to collect her bags.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

THE BAD PENNY.

Of course she would meet her rich hero and be married and live happily ever afterwards. Three children would be about right, two boys and a girl. The boys would grow up clever and distinguished, the girl a beauty and marry well. There would also be a horse to ride, a Rolls Royce, dogs and cats, with puppies and kittens, and a drawing room in primrose and mauve.

As for dear old Mr. Keene, he would marry another dear old thing and they would nurse each other and sit by the fire and be very sweet and happy.

"Even Stephen can be happy in his superior way," she thought generously, "but not married, of course (the idea of Stephen married was somehow distasteful), just looking on and being rather superior, but beginning to own she really was rather wonderful and that her husband was ever so lucky."

Then Stephen himself came in and did not seem to think Elizabeth in the least wonderful or admirable—far from it indeed.

She was a little shocked at his appearance. He looked as well groomed, as distinguished as ever, but his face was very pale and haggard, and he appeared even grimmer than usual. He started at the sight of Elizabeth, not because he was surprised, for nothing Elizabeth did could surprise him, as long as it was the annoying or the unexpected, but because she looked so radiant, so unlike either a runaway or a stray, such as in bad moments he had imagined her. He was too tired and sick at heart to feel a great relief. She would inevitably spell fresh worry or even disaster. She always looked especially gay when she had plunged head first into some mess. He could not but acknowledge her prettiness and her charm, but he was too tired to remember that, though two women had brought financial disaster into his life, there was no woman in the world with the power to touch him emotionally. From the worst disaster at least he was free.

"Hello, Elizabeth," was all he said, shaking into the chair next her. "So you're back?"

Elizabeth flared up at his tone. "You need not make me sound like a bad penny."

"Sorry!"

"Sorry I've turned up? Yes, I can see that! I suppose you hoped I was drowned?"

"Something. And I did think of it!" All the same she was not going to be dead yet, thank you!—not even to please Stephen.

Stephen was irritated by the antagonism in her voice. Could they never meet but she must start this sort of thing? If only she had been smacked when she was young! He made no reply.

Before his appearance Elizabeth had felt like a cat basking by a warm fire, its fur gently rubbed by soft fingers; now she was feeling like the same cat dragged roughly from the fire into the cold and its fur positively raked up the wrong way! No wonder cats sometimes went mad and bit people! Serve them right—the people she meant; not the cats. They were to be pitied. Stephen had no reply.

Aunt Het

"My notion is these women that feel broad-minded when they say 'leg' and things like that ain't got much else on their minds."

SALLY'S SALLIES

Some women don't tell all they know, they only have one tongue.

tact; some one ought to tell him about it. How could one hope to get on in the world without tact? If only he did not look so tired and ill. It was not her fault that he looked like that and it was silly to feel in this way about it.

"Well, I'm not drowned, anyway," she said sulkily.

Stephen, who had had a very trying day, was rasped. He thought of the bad time he had gone through after Elizabeth's disappearance until her curt letter had reached him. He had visualized all sorts of horrors, nearly been out of his mind, and here she was casual and mocking as ever. Obviously she had been staying with friends having a gay time, being flattered and made much of by every type of male. She had not condescended to let him know where she really was or what she was doing.

His temper began to rise. "I suppose it is too much for a mere guardian to inquire where you have been and what you have been doing?" he said icily.

"You talk as if I might have been in prison!" she retorted. "And I told you before—I don't want your old guardianship and I won't have it!" Her blue eyes sparkled with rage, a pair of flashing jewels in her riant little face. Talking to her as if she was some silly, ignorant girl. Her! Elizabeth!

Mark Lennox began to feel de trop and left the room without being noticed. Really these two were the eternal cat and dog, and he was so fond of both of them!

"Prison! Don't be silly, Elizabeth! I take it you were having an easy time—as usual."

"Then you're wrong," flashed Elizabeth. "I was living with two perfectly respectable old ladies, and if you think that's so easy you'd better try it!"

Stephen's mouth twitched. "I suppose have me excused!" he said lightly.

"And I did some cooking..."

"Did they eat it?"

"Don't be silly! After that I read to an old gentleman and got kissed by his beautiful son. As for you, I enjoyed that you should have seen him!"

"But you flirted with him?" He was frowning and accusing, very annoying to hear of the conduct of some puppy, but almost sure that Elizabeth had asked for it. There was the "come hither" look in those very blue eyes of hers. Well, it had no message for him!

"I didn't. I never flirt with horrid old things!" She gave him a glance of fiery indignation. "I'd as soon have thought of flirting with you..."

"Thank you!"

"Or a stick or a stone. And he had a horrid wife and five simply disgusting children! All with adenoids and snuffy. I smacked his face and before I could sack him the horrid wife came in and sacked me. 'If you had rung me up I'd have interviewed that damned cat for you! How dare the fellow kiss the young Elizabeth!'" Elizabeth, looking at his grim face, wished she had thought of it. "It would have been more than a smack!" she thought gloatingly.

"Well, I was thrown on the world," she said absurdly, "and one must learn by experience, I suppose. I know lots now and won't be caught ending again—I was stopping down to poke the fire. I am going tomorrow to live with a dear old lady in the country and he awfully spoiled and paid a lot. I'm sorry it's a woman. I'm awfully sick of pure women," she added frankly, "they're so dull, and I did hope I would never have to live with one again!"

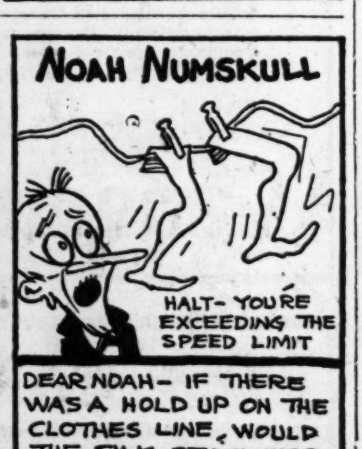

Stephen could not help laughing. Elizabeth had such a way of expressing herself. She was like a quaint little kitten, almost she persuaded him to play, too; she certainly made him conscious of the wish to try. Then he sighed. It was too late for that sort of thing. He had never been young and he had never played; Dolly had quickly put a stop to that sort of thing. Elizabeth was Dolly's niece, flesh of her flesh, and blood of her blood. He must never forget that.

"Still," he went on, "it mayn't be so frightful. Her nephew—he's a barrister—the kind that get people hung, he said—engaged me, and he's coming down for a week-end. I liked him. I simply adore blue eyes, don't you?"

Stephen looked into the eyes raised to his and answered harshly: "I certainly do not. You're very vain, Elizabeth." Some young fool had been telling her she had lovely blue eyes which she had. An infernal lot of puppies hanging round the child; the very thought of it enraged him.

"I wasn't thinking of me," she returned. "You needn't look so murderous."

LIFE'S LITTLE TRAGEDIES

THE debutante's face was as red as the tomato bouillon on her luncheon table. Ghastly silence reigned. Every eye was riveted on the centerpiece. A roach was racing to cover across the expanse of white linen. The luncheon was worse than a failure; it was a disaster!

Reputations as well as appetites may be ruined by a slight suggestion of carelessness. People are known by their surroundings, their personal and household hygiene, quite as much as by the company they keep.

Kill-Ko, easily and quickly sprayed, kills the home not only of roaches but of all other common insect pests. Buy it in the Blue Bottle 50c or 75c sizes at your favorite drug or grocery store, to protect your name as well as your health.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

THE HOME ON THE MOUNTAIN.
By Thornton W. Burgess.

A home is more than just a nest; it is the place we love the best.
—King Eagle.

In one of the lonely places on the Great Mountain, where there were few visitors at any time of year, grew a tall tree, and in that tree was a great home. It was toward this home that King Eagle was headed. It was his home—the home he and Mrs. Eagle had built many years before. It was not such a great home when they had first built it. It was not more than half its present size. It had been built very largely of sticks. Some of the sticks were large. These were the foundation sticks.

It was not all of sticks, however. Some sods had been worked in among them and some grass had been sown. A little had been added. King Eagle and Mrs. Eagle had looked far and wide before they selected that tree for their home.

"You see, my dear," said Mrs. Eagle, "a nest should be more than a nest; it should be a home. A home is a place to come back to. A nest may be left and a new nest built, but a home is a home, and what we want is a home. We must find just the place and when we have the right place we will raise our families there year after year."

"Quite right, my dear, quite right," said King Eagle, who really cared only to please Mrs. Eagle.

So together they had searched far and wide. They had flown up and down the Great River. They had flown far over the Green Forest. Looking down from high up in the blue sky, they could see everything for miles in all directions. For their eyes were wonderful. Swinging in great circles, they could see above the Great Mountains, they had looked it all over. And always they had come back to this certain tall tree. Finally Mrs. Eagle said, "This is the tree for our home."

"Right, my dear, quite right," replied King Eagle, and watched while Mrs. Eagle flew down and picked up the first stick. So the home on the mountain was begun. A great platform was built in that tree—a solid platform—and there in time Mrs. Eagle laid her eggs. So was the home begun.

When the cold weather came that fall, two young eagles had already started out in the Great World from that home, and King Eagle and Mrs. Eagle flew South for a little while. They had to be where they could get food, but their thoughts were always at home. They were back early in the spring. This year there was no hunting about. Straight to their great tree they flew and a wonderful time they had looking over their old home.

"It needs a little repairing on this side," said King Eagle.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Eagle, "and it needs a few sticks on this side."

"Don't you think it would be even better if it were a little larger?" asked King Eagle.

"The very thought I had in mind," replied Mrs. Eagle. "It was very good last year, but it will be better this year, for we have plenty of time to make it better."

So they added a little here and they added a little there, and by the time Mrs. Eagle was ready to lay her eggs the old home had been so improved that it was almost like a new home. It has been just the same way the next year and the year after that and each succeeding year. Never once had the thought of a new home entered their heads, but always they sought to improve the old home.

DIET AND HEALTH BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

"Have a darling little brindle bull terrier, four months old, although he had given no evidence of worms, I gave him worm medicine, as a matter of routine. A bunch of round worms came away, and since then I have worried myself sick that I might have gotten infected from him. We have no idea he had worms, so we let him eat out of our dishes on the floor; of course, the dishes were carefully washed afterwards, but I've had the creeps ever since."

"Would these be worm symptoms? Though I'm about 25 pounds overweight, I have a constant feeling of hunger in my stomach, beginning about an hour after eating, and the end of my nose tingles and itches. My mother and mother-in-law died of cancer of the stomach, and a sister for years has had gastric ulcer. For the last few months I have been awakened at night with a terrible headache, which left me exhausted for a couple of days. What is this? Is it cancer of the stomach, cancer symptoms or worms? And what to do?"

"MRS. N."

Without a very complete physical examination, including laboratory tests, etc., it would be impossible to diagnose what your troubles were, and what to do for them, Mrs. N. While we don't believe that cancer is hereditary, still, with a history of cancer in the family, it certainly behooves one to be careful, and your stomach symptoms might indicate beginning ulcer; ulcer, if neglected, may go on to cancer. That 25 pounds overweight shows you are not eating correctly.

It is certainly a bad habit to let animals eat out of the dishes you yourself use, no matter how carefully they are washed. You probably haven't worms. However, an examination of the bowel movement would show worm eggs, if it didn't the worms.

Stop worrying now, and go to a competent physician and have a very complete examination. (No. 102 me. I am not in private practice in any way.) Meanwhile, I suggest you send for the pamphlet on reducing and gaining and the article on balanced diet. The column rules for obtaining this material are to enclose (1) a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and (2) 10 cents in coin for the reducing and gaining pamphlet and 2 cents in coin for the other articles. These charges are to cover cost of printing and handling.

Over-Emotionalism.

Mrs. W.—See your family physician for a thorough physical examination to find some cause for your overwrought nerves and over-emotionalism. ## MRS. MOSES WRIGHT HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Rome, Ga., July 26.—(Special).—Mrs. Moses Wright, widow of the late Judge Moses Wright, sustained two broken ribs and a severely bruised back when the car in which she was riding left the road near the Chattahoochee county line on the Summerville road, and turned over.

Mrs. Wright is a member of a prominent local family. She was being driven to Mentone, Ala., by DeWitt Barker, of the Perry schools, when the accident occurred.

The cause of the accident is thought to be due to a faulty roadbed. Part of the new road, weakened by the recent heavy rains, gave way and the car was thrown over. Mrs. Wright and her companion were pinned beneath the wreckage of the new Ford car, and witnesses state that the top had to be cut away so that the two injured ones could be removed.

An ambulance rushed to the scene of the accident, and the injured were brought in to a local hospital, and though Mrs. Wright is suffering greatly from the shock, she is resting very comfortably.

DeWitt Barker, the young man who was driving the car, sustained severe lacerations about the head and face. Sixteen stitches were taken in a flesh wound on his forehead. He was able to leave the hospital shortly after his wounds were treated.

SPALDING COUNTY PLANS PARTY RALLY

Griffin, Ga., July 26.—(AP)—Spalding county democrats who have issued the call for a rally of party members at Griffin, August 3, have drawn up a "platform" in their support of democratic nominees in both state and national elections, according to the Griffin Daily News.

The call asserts, according to the News, that both parties have practically the same prohibition plank in their platforms and declares that prohibition is not a real issue in the coming national campaign.

The "platform" of the Spalding county ralliers holds forth the fundamental principles of the democratic party, among others, to be "the supremacy of the white people of the state and their right and duty to control its policies," and "the right of every man to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience."

The administrations of both Woodrow Wilson and Grover Cleveland are recalled as "honest and economical," and the fundamental principles of the republican party are sketched to include "a saturnalia of graft and corruption as exemplified in the careers of Daugherty, Fall and Sinclair, and in the disgraceful sale of public offices and patronage, for which the administrations of Harding and Coolidge will be chiefly remembered."

Colonel L. P. Goodrich, of the Griffin bar, will deliver the "keynote" address as temporary chairman of the rally. The call bears the names of 26 men prominently identified with business and professional life of the county.

AMOR SKIN—Europe's Scientific Beauty Discovery rejuvenates or preserves your beauty while you sleep.

HOW many hours a year do you spend at your dressing table with creams, lotions, powders and astringents—seeking beauty that is, in most cases, only temporary? What a needless sacrifice of time—and money—now that science has given you one preparation—AMOR SKIN—which helps nature to restore or preserve your beauty—permanently.

AMOR SKIN, an organic preparation discovered by German scientists, is the only beauty preparation that strengthens or revitalizes the natural functions under the skin. Just a few minutes with AMOR SKIN before you retire and while you are asleep this marvelous preparation is quietly at work building up the skin cells which are the real foundation of beauty. If these cells are healthy and active the skin becomes firm and Nature, herself, will remould broken contours and erase lines on face, neck and arms.

AMOR SKIN is Nature's own beautifier. If you are still young it will enable you to face without fear the exigencies of this breathless age; if the tell-tale marks of passing years already have begun to show, it will restore that greatest of gifts—a youthful appearance.

Tunney's Masterful Attack Proves Too Much for Challenger

Game to Last, Heeney Falls Before Gene

Champion Proves He Is Master of His Class by Stopping "Honest Tom."

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Yankee Stadium, New York, July 26.—(AP)—Blinded and staggering, his face a bloody smear, Tom Heeney, the hard rock from down under, collapsed and fell a victim to the technical knockout in the eleventh round of his world's heavyweight championship battle with Gene Tunney tonight.

Tunney, born and reared in New York, and defending his title at home for the first time, cut the sturdy, courageous New Zealander to pieces, subjecting him to one of the worst beatings a challenger ever received.

Upward of 50,000 spectators saw Heeney wade into unbroken slaughter through round after round as Tunney, the master boxer, lashed his face with left hooks and pounded his heart with vicious solid rights.

Charges Like Bull.
Heeney came charging in like a bull, but the elusive Tunney, cool and collected, evaded his wild rights to the jaw and stabbed him with lefts to the face until the thud of the gloves against Heeney's cut and bruised face almost became monotonous.

The Associated Press score card showed Tunney winning at least nine of the eleven rounds, with Heeney winning the first and dividing honors with the titleholder in the second. Heeney's major offensive was the first round. After that he was a badly pounded target who, although boring in with tireless energy, could never escape Tunney's masterful attack.

The battle was a struggle between a boxer who has proved himself perfect in his art and a strong, durable fighter whose chief asset is his natural strength. Tunney, a master of defensive boxing, allowed Heeney to set the early pace, and then, after slowing him up with savage blows under his heart, proceeded to batter him into a state of collapse.

It took no expert, after the savage fight tenth round, to tell that Heeney, the plodder, had met his master, and that his finish was coming. As this round ended Heeney was lying flat on his back, his body rolled to the edge of the ring, completely knocked out. His seconds rushed into the ring as the bell clanged and the fallen New Zealand gladiator was dragged to his corner where restoratives were applied.

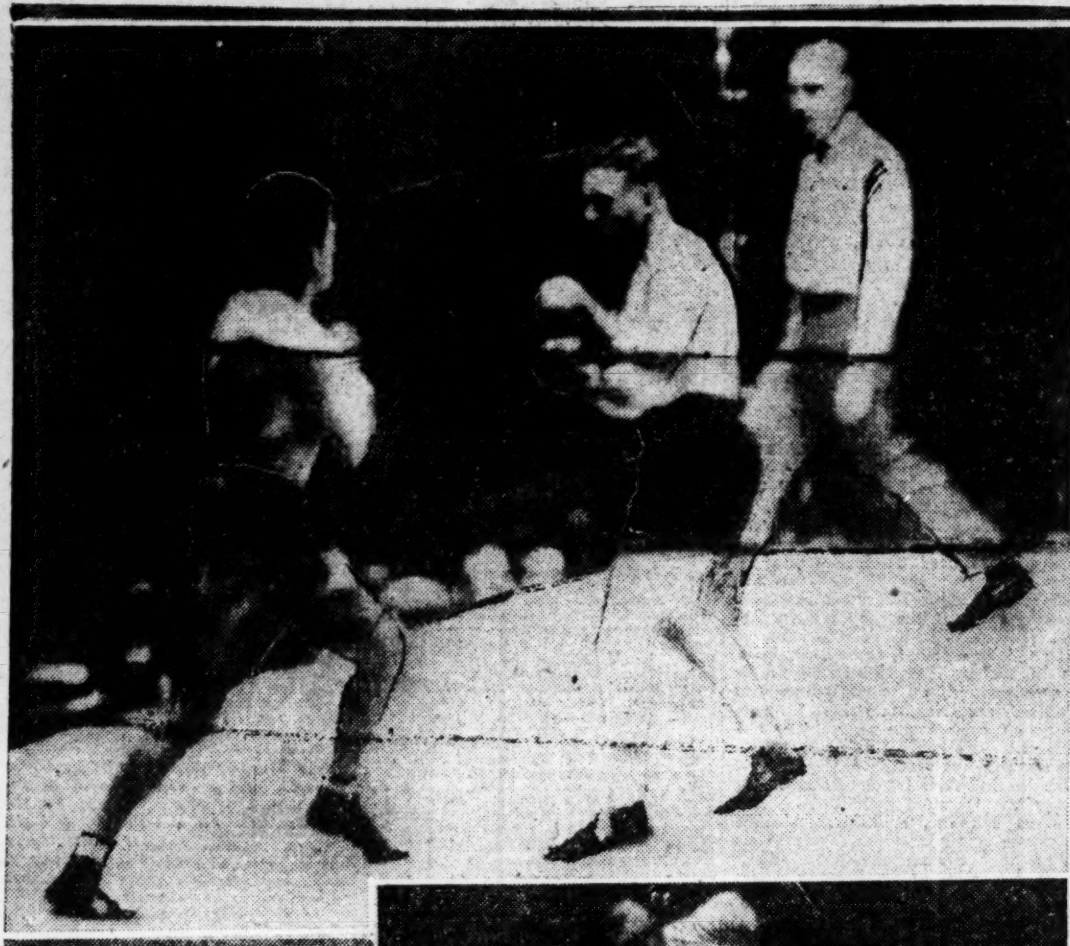

His seconds worked frantically over him, shaking his head to sweep the cobwebs out of his brain and applying the smelling salts to his bleeding nose. Heeney, with marvelous recuperative power, came charging out of his corner as the eleventh round opened, only to fall an easy victim to another barrage of well-timed punches that knocked him groggy and reeling.

Fight Is Stopped.
As he stood there, with his back to the ropes, his arms hanging heavily at his sides, a certain victim to a finishing knockout blow, Eddie Forbes, the referee, humanely waved Tunney to his corner. Heeney had had his chance and lost but only after fighting a game, uphill battle.

With the exception of the eleventh, and Heeney's desperate charge in the first, the tenth round was the most dramatic of the battle. It was one-sided that Heeney, bleeding from a wicked cut over his left eye, was pathetic. Tunney opened up with one of those terrific rights just under the heart and then shot a left to the face. By that time blood was streaming into Heeney's eye, blinding him. He leaped out with a left to the body. Tunney retaliated with a left and right to the stomach.

They traded lefts to the body and then Tunney threw right and left to the head. Heeney tried for a left to the head and missed, with Tunney driving both fists to the body as he weakened for a charge. He repeated and then hooked two hard lefts to the head. Heeney slid into the ropes and was on the verge of falling to the floor in Tunney's own corner. Instead he lunged forward and fell flat on his face, rolling over to the edge of the ring and nearly into the laps of workers in the press row.

Heart of a Lion.

After the first and second rounds, one round was much like the other until the tenth. Heeney would wade in with the heart of a lion and a jaw of corrugated steel, almost contemptuous of Tunney's blows. Tunney would beat him off with a left jab to the face, and then throw a pile-driving right to the heart region. Heeney, although certainly growing weaker under this terrific battering, never ceased charging in. Tunney, continually darning out of range, either stepping inside of Heeney's wild rights or backing away from them.

Two or three times the crowd became irritated at Tunney's retreats and yelled for him to get off his bicycle. Heeney complained that Tunney jammed his thumb into his right eye in the eighth round, blinding him, but Referee Forbes paid no attention to the protest. The Hard Rock blinked continually and backed into the ropes, with Tunney apparently believing Heeney's actions a trick to entrap him, refusing to go in and finish him.

Heeney In Distress.
Heeney, in this season, was plainly in distress and seriously handicapped. Tunney, as a result of his victim's handicap, hit the rock-ribbed New Zealander at will, making Heeney's impressive showing up to this stage of the battle. His blows, however, did not carry the dynamite needed to upset him.

Although the battle lacked the magnetic appeal, from a boxoffice standpoint, the crowd was characterized by representative of heavyweights everywhere. Persons prominent in the industrial, social, business and professional affairs of the nation were crowded around the ringside.

The champion was a 3 to 1 favorite in the betting.
Dempsey Cheered.
Jack Dempsey, the old Manassa mauler, himself twice defeated by the man who conquered Heeney tonight, was in a front row press seat. When Dempsey, faultlessly attired in a light green suit, climbed into the ring to be introduced before the fight started, he received one of the greatest tributes accorded a ring hero. The nation exceeded the cheers and applause given Tunney.

The Fight By Rounds

BY GRANTLAND RICE.

Following is a round-by-round detail of the Tunney-Heeney fight by Grantland Rice, world's greatest sports writer:

FIRST ROUND.

They both led together. Heeney rushed to the ropes. He struck before they broke. He was warned by the referee. Again Heeney rushed Tunney to a neutral corner, and as Tunney landed a hard right to the body Heeney countered and they clinched again. Tunney sent a swift right and left to the jaw, but neither hurt the New Zealander. Heeney again staggered Tunney with a terrific right to the body. Heeney was taking the aggressive. They exchanged right hooks and clinched. Tunney landed a left hook to the head and Heeney countered quickly. Tunney had a slight cut over his left eye. They stood and slugged and Tunney backed away. This round was about even. Tunney landed a few cleaner punches but Heeney forced most of the fighting.

SECOND ROUND.

As they came out in the second round they danced around for a moment, swung and clinched. Heeney charged and they clinched together, with little difference. Tunney then stabbed Heeney with two lefts to the jaw. Beautiful work. Once more they went into a clinch as Heeney missed a wild swing. Coming into a clinch once again they started slugging and clinched almost immediately. Heeney blocked two rights to the body but Tunney landed another left. They stood and slugged again, with Heeney leading the advance as Gene backed away. Heeney landed two lefts to the face just before the bell rang.

Tunney had just a shade in the round but Heeney was the aggressor.

THIRD ROUND.

Beginning the third round Heeney marched past the middle of the ring and each landed rights as they met. As Tunney stabbed with a left they clinched again and stood chopping away. Heeney landed a hard left and right at the head and roughed Tunney to the ropes. Neither was punching with great force. Gene stabbed two lefts to Heeney's face. Another jabbed Heeney badly. He staggered and Tunney rushed him to the ropes. As Heeney was forcing him around Tunney was backing away. Heeney's nose was bleeding slightly but he showed no effects of fighting. Tunney landed three clean blows in succession.

FOURTH ROUND.

This was Tunney's round by a wide margin. This was Tunney's best round. Coming out for the fourth Heeney walked steadily for Tunney. Gene danced away. They exchanged rights but neither landed. Tunney then landed a heavy left to Heeney's face. Heeney's short arms could not get the range as Tunney stood away and jabbed. He was willing enough but he was now being badly out-boxed. Heeney blocked another left to the side of the head as they clinched. Tunney now began to land with greater frequency. Heeney vainly tried to close in, but long lefts to the head jabbed him away. A right cross slowed him up. Heeney finally broke through the barrage and landed three punches to the head and body. Heeney's face was bleeding badly, but he piled upon Tunney and slugged him to the ropes.

It was Tunney's round but Heeney made a game and gallant fight, having all the best of the last minute.

FIFTH ROUND.

They met in the middle of the ring as the started and came into a clinch. Heeney finds by now he could not box with Tunney. Tunney's left still kept him away. Heeney shot a hard left to the mouth then countered with a hard crash to the body as Heeney waded in and they clinched against the ropes. Gene and the punishment he was taking it was Heeney who led the march and did the walking forward. There was a quiet spot with much clinching in the round as they both tried for rights to the face. Heeney was tripped as they came into a clinch and got up again quickly and landed a heavy smash to the head. Tunney shot with a left and right just like two rapid thrusts just before the round ended.

This is again Tunney's round.

SIXTH ROUND.

The champion did some fine boxing. Tunney backed away as Heeney charged out in the sixth and both of them missed right swings. Heeney again took a swift left jab to the jaw and followed by a left uppercut. Tunney was having all the best of the boxing and Heeney was still unable to stall. Exchanged stiff lefts to the stomach. One after another they clinched. Heeney's short arms could not get the range as Tunney stood away and jabbed. He was taking a lot of punishment at this time as Tunney thumped him with both hands. It was apparent that he was wading. In for a knockout, hitting hard. Heeney stood and slugged with him. Heeney was now bleeding badly and in a helpless.

SEVENTH ROUND.

Heeney charged out at the head and once again Tunney danced out of reach waiting for an opening. It was much like a man charging a machine gun nest but Tom kept wading in. Taking everything. He was game enough but he couldn't box. Heeney had a heavy punch over the left eye which seemed to bother him a lot. It came from a right hook. Tunney then closed in as Heeney weakened and backed away as Heeney began to recover. He was taking a lot of punishment at this time as Tunney thumped him with both hands. It was apparent that he was wading. In for a knockout, hitting hard. Heeney stood and slugged with him. Heeney was now bleeding badly and in a helpless.

EIGHTH ROUND.

Heeney charged out at the head and once again Tunney danced out of reach waiting for an opening. It was much like a man charging a machine gun nest but Tom kept wading in. Taking everything. He was game enough but he couldn't box. Heeney had a heavy punch over the left eye which seemed to bother him a lot. It came from a right hook. Tunney then closed in as Heeney weakened and backed away as Heeney began to recover. He was taking a lot of punishment at this time as Tunney thumped him with both hands. It was apparent that he was wading. In for a knockout, hitting hard. Heeney stood and slugged with him. Heeney was now bleeding badly and in a helpless.

'Honest Tom' No Challenger, Says Loughran

Tunney Proves He Is Master of Ring by Knocking Out Heeney.

BY TOMMY LOUGHRAN.

Light Heavy Champion of the World. Copyright, 1928, by the American Sports Paper Alliance.

Yankee Stadium, New York, N. Y., July 26.—Tunney's sharp shooting rattled Heeney into submission in 11 rounds. Gene Tunney, a champion, cool, calm and collected with every natural advantage, tonight demonstrated his ability over Tom Heeney, the most unqualified contender ever to participate in a heavyweight title contest. Tunney, with years of experience in boxing the world's best, six inches more of reach, height in his favor, master of foot and hand, and the confidence supreme which is the proper trait of every champion, represented the lion in leading the lamb, Heeney, to the slaughter.

A Fighting Heart.

Heeney was absolutely devoid of boxing skill, cumbersome of foot, with short club-like arms, which lacked the power the heavy muscles portrayed. He had only the heart to fight to the finish and ruggedness beyond human conception. Courage is the trait which all red-blooded men love and Heeney endeavored himself to the crowd by exhibiting 200 pounds of it.

Tunney started to fight Heeney but changed his plans when hit by a right hand punch to the jaw coming out of a clinch. From then on he jabbed with a straight left to the head and crossed his right. This proved ineffective by the fourth round, so Tunney dropped the right to the body. This baffled Heeney who couldn't follow Tunney's style. In the fourth Heeney started to bleed from a cut under the chin and the champion kept the score flowing from the challenger's face.

Heeney won the first half of the sixth round, the only one in which he made any kind of a showing. Tunney came back with a rally to even the score. In the eighth round a punch closed Heeney's left eye and handicapped him seriously thereafter. In the following round a right from Tunney split Heeney's eye and blood poured into it. His nose, mouth and eye shed blood and the challenger's chances faded altogether. Heeney opened the tenth round a battered hulk, his face a bloody mask but he still carried the fight to Tunney.

Heeney Floored.

Gene battered the New Zealander from pillar to post and floored him as the bell rang.

The eleventh should never have started. Boxing brains, good physical condition and an assortment of blows which he varied at every chance won for Tunney.

Gene just eased along letting Heeney wear himself out and placed punches vital spots until he felled Heeney. It was just an exhibition of science overcoming brute strength. Heeney never had a chance and did not win a round.

One word of praise for Heeney, we owe him for his gameness but it is not enough to win fistiana's highest prize. We are proud of Tunney's demonstration tonight. It was the acme of boxing skill.

Pete Cole Defeats Knoxville Battler

had way as the bell ended the round. This was all Tunney's round.

NINTH ROUND.

Heeney again took the aggressive at the start of the ninth and they went into a clinch. Heeney took a left to the jaw and countered with a hard left to the head, but landed high. Heeney looked tired as they clinched again. Once again they clinched as the crowd roared. Heeney's nose is now in a bad way, battered into a pulp. Tunney continued to thump him with rights and lefts as Heeney was barely able to land a blow. Heeney had nothing left but his stamina and his courage as he took punch after punch. Heavy streams of crimson ran down Heeney's face, but in spite of that he landed a hard right to Gene's head that rocked the champion for a moment. Heeney's foot like the lead sea as the round ended. Heeney's seconds worked feverishly to get the blood out of his eyes and nose before the tenth round started.

TENTH ROUND.

Heeney took a stiff left to the head as they met to start the tenth. He tried to land a left, but Tunney closed him up and shot a hard right to his damaged left eye. In spite of all the punishment that Heeney was taking, he continued to walk forward and take the charge as Tunney landed about six punches to one. Heeney's seconds yelled "Keep punching," but there were too many gloves in his face as he kept stepping in. Tunney made him miss a right swing by two feet. Tunney tried with a vicious right uppercut, but missed. Then they stood and slugged, but Tunney did most of it. He knocked Heeney down as the round rang with a hard right to the jaw.

ELEVENTH ROUND.

In starting the eleventh Heeney charged in and swung a hard right which Tunney ducked. Tunney immediately fell upon him with rights and lefts in a wild attempt to knock him out, but he was game from the bottom of his heart. Tunney was out for a knockout, but he caught two heavy punches as he attempted to land. Heeney wasn't dead yet. A right and left to the head staggered Heeney again. Once more he was taken through a terrific battle. And he was groggy as they clinched. Tunney was landing with everything he had. He was merely cutting Heeney. Heeney was in a bad way as they stood and slugged. But Heeney kept on slugging just the same. Tunney drove him against the ropes and the round ended, as at this point the referee stopped the fight to save Heeney from further punishment. There were two minutes and 52 seconds of the eleventh round zone when the fight was stopped. Heeney was practically helpless.

New York, July 26.—(AP)—With an approximate attendance of 50,000 and estimated receipts of no more than $750,000, Gene Tunney's successful defense of his heavyweight crown against Tom Heeney tonight saw Tex Rickard fall nearly $2,000,000 short of the record pugilistic "gate" he drew at Chicago last September when Tunney defeated Jack Dempsey in his first defense of his crown.

The figures for the last four "battles of the century" follow:

New York, July 26.—(A)—Cotton prices advanced $2 a bale today on reports of further showers or rains in the eastern belt and increasing apprehensions of boll weevil damage in that section, combined with relatively firm Liverpool cables and a firm technical position. December con-

There was heavy stalling on the initial advance, but the midday market firmed up on reports of increased boll weevil infestation in Alabama, covering or rebuying by recent sellers. This midday bulge carried prices about 38 to 40 points net higher, where another spurt of realizing was encountered. This selling, also, was taken care of by the market.

October sold up to 20.90 and January to 20.74, net advances of 42 to 45 points on the more active months, while May selling at 20.61, showed a net gain of about 50 points.

New Orleans, July 26.—(P)—Cotton prices advanced.

Prices advanced today under trade buying induced by talk of increased weevil activity and reports of an overabundance of rain in the belt. At the highest October traded at $20.38 or approximately $2 a bale net higher. The option closed at $20.34, or 36 points net up with the general market steady at a net advance of 36 to 40 points.

Liverpool cables were 9 to 12 points better than due and first trades here showed gains of 10 to 20 points. Although some selling developed in early trading, it was readily absorbed on buying induced by the map's showing of considerable rain in the belt overnight and reports of greater weevil activity. October ultimately advanced to $20.35; December, $20.30 and January, $20.42, at 37, 46 and 28, respectively.

The Day in Finance

By
R. L. BARNUM

New York, July 26.—Steel common, American Smelting, American Can, General Motors and other prominent stocks were active in spots with the turnover for the day was again small.

Call money on the stock exchange renewed at 5 1/2 per cent with the supply larger than the demand. On the outside market the rate dropped to 5 per cent at noon with reports of small amounts having been placed at 4 3/4 per cent. With the turnover in the stock market at its existing low level the rate for call money does not accurately picture conditions in the money market. Time money for all periods was quoted at 6 bid with none offered.

Wall street expected a small weekly increase in brokers' loans for the reason that what activity there has been in the market for the past week has been on the side of advancing prices.

Usually well informed money brokers predicted today that with tomorrow settlement for the member banks at the federal reserve bank there would probably be some calling of loans to orrow by the Wall street banks with call money working some higher. Call money made tomorrow run over the week-end.

Borrowing Heavy.

With the member banks loaned up and borrowing heavily from the federal reserve and with demand for crop moving and autumn commercial requirements already being felt, offerings of bank acceptances exceed the demand. This is why the rate on bank acceptances was advanced to the highest level since October, 1921. It was hoped that the advance would stimulate buying of bankers' acceptances by the savings banks.

Belling Hemingway, manufacturers of silk fabrics, hosiery and thread, passed the common dividend today. This industry is losing ground to artificial silk. Lima Locomotive also passed its common dividend. Chairman Coffin pointed out that it was a matter of common knowledge that manufacturers of railway equipment were receiving orders only sufficient to keep plants running at a small percentage of capacity. He said that the two 1/2 dividends declared during the first half of the year had been earned but that the business now in hand and in sight was not sufficient to pay the regular dividend.

Approximately 80 per cent of the cotton mills in the country will close the last week of July, thus eliminating between 15,000,000 and 16,000,000 yards of cotton goods. Similar action was taken earlier this month, eliminating 20,000,000 yards for the good of the industry as a whole. Wall street was greatly surprised at today's announcement of an advance from 6 to 15 per cent in all grades of Mid-Continent crude oil. Only recently Standard Oil of New Jersey through its official publication, The Light, went strongly on record as being against any advance in Mid-Continent crude prices because of existing overproduction. Since then a movement has been started to get together oil producers all over the world, especially here and in Venezuela, to agree on plans for curtailing production of crude oil. Carter Oil and Humble Oil, two Standard Oil companies were leaders in today's advance in Mid-Continent crude oil. It is understood that the advance just announced in Mid-Continent crude prices developed from the recent seasonal advances in gasoline prices. Usually well informed Wall street oil people expressed the belief today that a mistake had been made in advancing Mid-Continent crude oil prices at a time when efforts are being made to curtail production.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, July 26.—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York made no change today in its discount rate of 6 per cent.

June net operating income of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific moved up to $1,510,829 from $1,262,529 in June last year, and for the half year showed an increase to $1,170,176 in contrast to $1,000,809 for 1927. June gross revenues were $1,131,513 against $1,130,143 in June last year.

Follow Steel Lead.

Apparently oil producers are taking a leaf out of the book of the steel manufacturers. With overproduction of steel here and abroad the steel industry has just advanced its selling prices for fourth quarter delivery.

What the steel and oil producers are doing in the way of advancing selling prices in the face of overproduction is something new in economics.

With the Philadelphia Federal Reserve bank rate raised to 5 per cent seven of our 12 reserve banks are now on a 5 per cent discount basis, with the exception of Germany, the highest discount rate of any important money market in the world. Our reserve banks advanced their discount rate by steps from 3 1/2 per cent to 5 to correct a situation created by wild speculation in our stock market. The higher discount rate established here has attracted funds from other countries. To send funds here the countries had to sell cotton and foodstuffs, selling their exchange to oil.

In the very near future foreign countries will begin to make seasonal purchases here for cotton and foodstuffs, selling their exchange to oil.
